Splitting The Five Towns Is Supreme Council Problem

Must Be, Says France; Needless Is British Avowal In Peace Making Talk By Premier

WHAT IS ANSWER?

Experts Ordered Make Fresh Examination Of Situation In Silesia

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 9.—The general feeling is that the Supreme Council has opened under favorable conditions, the atmosphere having greatly improved as compared with a week ago. Mr. Lloyd George expects to return to London on August 14.

Speaking in the Council on the subject of Upper Silesia, Mr. Lloyd George said the problem was most menacing, and an urgent solution was desirable. British and Italian views in this respect were identical, but they differed from those of France.

The British Empire would never support a settlement which was tantamount to a manoeuvre to diminish the population of Germany. He suggested that the experts be freshly instructed.

He emphasised that Britain would always support France if unjustly attacked, but the nations of the Empire would not be dragged into a war arising from the oppressive use of superior force or an abuse of justice in an hour of triumph by any ally.

Later.—Mr. Lloyd George was in good form, and scored many points which did not accord with the French views, but with a humor which evoked frequent laughter.

The French High Commissioner for Upper Silesia declared that the available troops were insufficient to maintain order. The British High Commissioner expressed the opinion that there was no danger of the Germans initiating an armed movement, but there might be a reaction if the Poles began military operations.

Mr. Lloyd George emphasised that the settlement must not be at the expense of the majority of the people of Upper Silesia. He refused to accept the view that the population were oppressed as a whole. Silesia had been German for seven centuries.

He suggested that the experts be instructed anew: first, to follow the lines of one vote one value; secondly, that the industrial unit, which is German by two to one, should be consigned to Germany; thirdly, that contiguous areas should be analysed to show what communes were vitally connected with the industrial area.

It was agreed that the experts should begin work on these lines.

NOT "COUP DE GRACE"

M. Briand declared that the French policy was not one of "finishing off a wounded man." France desired a just settlement for the vanquished, but was against reserving for them a privileged fate. He urged that the results of the plebiscite should be considered from the ethnical point of view, because the outside voter was not equal to the vote of the native. He said that, out of 200,000 outvoters, 180,000 voted for Germany. The French scheme would allot to Germany and Poland a majority of their respective voters, whereas the British proposed to allot 70 percent of the Polish voters to Germany, and only 11 percent of the German voters to Poland.

Signor Bonomi, the Italian Premier, appealed to the solidarity of the Allies to find a solution, and Baron Hayashi expressed the hope that an agreement would be found, based on formulae framed in common.

The more hopeful tone which prevails tonight is ascribed to Mr. Lloyd George's suggestion for the resumption of the experts' committee. This is interpreted here as meaning that the British are willing to abandon the theory of the indivisibility of the industrial triangle. The experts, who are reinforced by the inclusion of the Allied High Commissioners, began their work immediately. It is stated that by midnight they had made considerable progress, and it is hoped that they will present their report on Wednesday afternoon.

NEAR EAST REPORT

Paris, August 9.—While the experts were engaged on the Silesian question, the Supreme Council discussed the Near East,

Fleming Released On Bail Of G.$2,000

Mr. William S. Fleming of the American law firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan, who was sentenced to serve six months in the American prison on July 28 by Judge Lobingier after the attorney had been held guilty of contempt of court, was released from custody yesterday on bail bond of Gold $2,000, which was signed by Mr. Frank Raven.

Bail was granted in the case by Judge Lobingier in a ruling he handed down on a motion for a reduction of sentence which was denied. The Court took this course to enable Attorney Fleming to obtain a review of the contempt proceedings by the Ninth District Court of Appeals of California to which the case is being taken on a writ of error. The necessary documents to send the case to the higher tribunal were filed yesterday morning.

Cancel Millions In Chinese Treasury Bills Given Banque

Notification of the cancellation of £2,700,000 and Francs 25,000,000 of treasury bills which were turned over the Banque Industrielle de Chine for negotiation has been made by the Ministry of Finance in Peking. The bills, comprising 100 for a face value of £25,000 each, 20 for £10,000 each and 25 for a face value of Frances 1,000,000 each are announced nullified as not yet having been disposed of.

CECIL DECLARES BRITAIN FEARS NATIONS LEAGUE

Hear, Hear! Says Chamberlain, Ironically, You Have Heard Replies Lord Robert

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 9.—At question-time in the House of Commons today Mr. Chamberlain announced that Sir James Rennell Rodd, Ambassador to Italy since 1908, would be the third representative of Great Britain on the League of Nations Assembly, in addition to Mr. Balfour and Mr. H. A. L. Fisher.

Lord Robert Cecil protested against all the British representatives on the League of Nations belonging to the official class. At a later stage Lord Robert Cecil endeavored to move the adjournment of the House in order to discuss the matter, but the Speaker refused permission, whereupon Lord Robert Cecil said the selection of the delegation was another illustration of the Government's contempt for and fear of the League. There were cries of "Order," and Mr. Chamberlain ironically exclaimed: "Hear, hear."

Lord Robert Cecil leaned forward and repeated "So you have," whereupon the Speaker rebuked him.

Munitions Plant Is Destroyed With 7 Dead, 27 Injured

Tokio, August 9.—The official report of yesterday's explosion at Hiroshima confirms the complete destruction of two powder magazines and the partial destruction of one magazine, three factories and an ordnance depot. Seven persons were killed and 27 injured.

Want Foreigners In Chinese Co.'s Probed By Consul

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 7.—The Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce has decided to notify the Waichiaopu that Chinese trust companies and stock brokers who have been refused registration by the Central Government have entered into partnership with foreigners in order to operate in Shanghai. The Government is apprehensive that, should these concerns have insufficient capital, foreign investors may suffer. It therefore desires that the Waichiaopu should negotiate with the Legations here, with a view to their instructing their Consuls at Shanghai to take any necessary action in the matter.

OUR HAND ON TABLE STATE JAPANESE IN DISCLAIMER

Deny Certain Currents In Japan Unfavorable To Disarmament

HOUSE SEES ROCKS

Plenty Material's For Hot Water But Sad If War Resulted

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 9.—Baron Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador, has issued a statement, disclaiming all knowledge of the published statement, attributed to the Japanese Embassy in London, to the effect that there was "a certain current of opinion in Japan unfavorable to the American disarmament proposal, because, although theoretically it is regarded with complete approval, it is felt that a practical result cannot be reckoned upon with confidence."

The Japanese Embassy in Washington has declared that the settled decision of the Japanese Government to enter the Conference whole-heartedly and with confidence was already made clear beyond all misapprehension, and that their information from Tokio indicated that this attitude had the support of the Japanese people and press.

The State Department is now advised that Japan gladly accepts November 11 as the date of the Conference.

House Sees Ingredients For Making A Fine Row

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 9.—In a message from London to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Colonel E. M. House declares that Japan's acceptance of the Washington Conference is not so reserved as it might be, but that her statesmen are proverbially cautious. She probably does not wish to be led into a discussion where matters relating to the Versailles Conference may be opened.

Colonel House admits that there are many ingredients for trouble between America and Japan, but it would be a sad failure, he adds, if they should ever bring war.

He expresses the hope that the Conference may have a wider scope than the wording of the invitation indicates, notably that it will touch upon the questions of Germany, Russia and the Near Eastern States, even though no attempt of a definite character be made to bring them within the scope of any agreement reached.

Washington, August 9.—Japan's acceptance makes a unanimous agreement that the opening of the Disarmament conference shall be held on Armistice Day. It is expected that an invitation for that date will be issued without delay.

Officials express the opinion that prompt replies will hasten the negotiations into the second phase, viz., the consideration of the list of subjects to be discussed.

It is expected that the invitations will merely state the general purposes of the Conference, and possibly convey the suggestion that each nation's principal representation should aggregate only five or six delegates. It is surmised that Secretary of State Hughes will head the United States group.

APPROVE ARMISTICE DAY

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 9.—The United States, Italy and China have announced their approval of November 11 as the date for the assembling of the Disarmament Conference.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 9.—Viscount Uchida formally informed Mr. E. Bell, the American Charge d'Affaires today that Japan had no objection to the holding of the Washington Conference on November 11.

CHU ACTING COUNSELLOR

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 7.—It is reported that, pending the arrival of Dr. Tsao Yun-hsiang, the newly appointed Counsellor of the Waichiaopu, who is still in Copenhagen, Mr. Chu Hu-hsiang, the Secretary of the Waichiaopu will be appointed Acting Counsellor of the same Ministry.

Empire's Premiers For Anglo-Japanese Alliance; Prefer One Including U.S.A.

Premiers of the British Empire, with members of their staff, photographed in the court of No. 10 Downing street, London, where the conference of Premiers ended a few days ago. Premier Lloyd George, of Great Britain, presides over the council. Among those seated in the front row are Arthur J. Balfour, a representative of India; Premier Massey, of New Zealand; Premier Meighen, of Canada; Premier Lloyd George; Premier Hughes, of Australia; Premier Jan Smuts, of South Africa, and Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary.

Massey Declares Conference Threshed Out The Subject From Every Possible Angle And Finally Came To Favor Continuance Unless Triple Alliance Embracing America Could Be Formed

LONDON, August 9.—Reviewing the labors of the Imperial Conference, Mr. W. F. Massey, the New Zealand Prime Minister, declared that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance was threshed out from every possible point of view. The weight of opinion favored the continuance of the present arrangement unless an arrangement could be effected among Great Britain, America and Japan. Mr. Massey was of the opinion that, if this could be effected at the Washington Conference, more progress would have been made towards the millennium than many people deemed possible.

Mr. Massey laid stress on the needs for cheaper cables, the development of wireless, the duplication of the Pacific cable, lower freights, faster mail vessels and the improvement of aviation.

IRELAND'S TERMS INCLUDE STATUS OF DOMINIONS

Army Subject To Both North And South Factions' Agreements

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 9.—It is reliably reported from Dublin that the terms for Ireland which Mr. Lloyd George offered to Mr. de Valera include: dominion status; Ireland completely to control policing and Irish taxation; defence to be controlled by the United Kingdom, but the army establishment in Ireland to be subject to a mutual understanding with the Parliaments of the North and South, with the offer of special facilities for recruitment in Ireland for the Irish regiments of the Imperial Army.

It is believed also that it is proposed that Ireland should bear a proportionate share of the pensions arising out of the late war, that foreign treaties should be reserved for the Imperial Government, and that it is stipulated that Ireland, in fixing her customs, shall not erect a tariff wall against England.

Teahouse Waiters Strike In Canton

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 10.—Public interest here centers at present on the strike of tea-house waiters. The number of waiters affected is only 5,000, but the public is feeling much inconvenience on account of the Cantonese habit of morning, noon and evening teas. The working class is more particularly affected because the teahouses serve for them the purposes of a club. If the restaurant waiters should join the strike the traveling public will also be greatly inconvenienced.

German Tanning Co. Bought By British

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 9.—The Hamburg correspondent of the Boersen Courier states that an extraordinary general meeting of the Renner Tanning and Dyeworks Company on Friday will consider proposals to transfer the entire concern to the Forestal Land Timber and Railways Company, of London, who are prepared to purchase it at the rate of 525 percent per thousand-mark share in the Renner Company, plus a bonus of fifty percent.

PRIEST DENIES MURDERS

(Reuter's Service)

Lahore, August 9.—The priest who was accused by a witness yesterday of having collected hundreds of fighters who massacred the Sikhs at the Nankana-Sahib shrine last February, which he personally directed, has made a categorical denial of the allegations.

Prickly Heat Is Truly Murderer Of Sleep

By Bruce Hopper

Methought I heard a voice cry sleep no more, for prickly heat doth heckle sleep, and [illegible] sick the hear[illegible]

Job had it. Pharaoh enjoyed it as one of the seven plagues. And nearly everybody in Shanghai is asking nearly everybody else what is to be done to get rid of it. What it is no one exactly knows, how it feels is common gossip, and the descriptive word is unmentionable. The only certainty about the beautiful summer rash called prickly heat is that it does not exist within the Arctic circle.

Like a thief it enters the chamber of the hectic one who has danced most of the night away, spreads its mottled array with such disregard for artistic values that the victim does not recognise his familiar figure in the morning mirror. It attacks the fat and the thin, the young and the old, ruins the sweetest disposition, and makes the epidermis such a raging playground of ill and stinging nettles that the modern Job begins to sigh for the mad house.

CAUSE SIMPLE; EFFECT SIMPLY—!

Man's particular grievance against prickly heat is that it does not get him Blighty leave, bunk fatigue, hospital recess, or any of the pleasant reliefs from work and duty attendant upon much less annoying discomforts. He has to stick it through, and express his longing in dreams of olive oil baths cooled with ice.

Prickly heat is one of those things which are not what they seem. It has nothing to do with the blood, with the diet, with over-eating, or under-drinking. Its scientific name is general hyperidrosis, which means excessive perspiration.

The cause is fairly simple to the lay mind. Only doctors say they cannot understand it. The hot weather, exertion, tight waist bands and belts, friction of the clothing, and a few hundred other contributory circumstances, excite profuse perspiration. The sweat glands are overworked. The ducts leading from the glands to the mouths of the pores are running full, and flooding the surface of the body with liquid. As the perspiration evaporates the residue of urates, phosphates and chlorides acumulate, and irritate the mouths of the pores.

VIVID'S NOT THE TERM!

The result is a crop of vivid red papules, called miliaria rubra, interwoven with another crop of white or clear vesicles which look like water blisters, called miliaria alba. Both go to make up the consummate burning itch of prickly heat. It was once thought that both forms were initial stages of eczema.

As the abundant eruptions are not due to microscopic germs it follows that no medical treatment can cure the [illegible] heat [illegible] comes and goes, often [illegible] for weeks, but each crop is only a few days in duration. Soothing lotions of diluted alcohol, or boric acid dissolved in water, alleviate the burning somewhat, but do not cure. Dusting powders, such as a mixture of half talc with half oxide of zinc or subcarbonate of bismuth help to dry the body, but care must be taken not to close the pores.

According to the ex-caxhedra medical opinion of Shanghai the victim of prickly heat will just have to simmer on till the cool breezes of autumn give his sweat glands a rest. The pins and needles will continue to prick until the iron enters his soul, for he is afflicted with a sensitive perspiratory apparatus.

THESE TIPS MAY AID

His only hope is to diminish the intensity of his discomfort, which is possible by removing the highly concentrated perspiration from the surface of the body before the salts work into the epidermic cells.

The following suggestions represent the jewels of advice gathered from the sympathetic medical men of Shanghai, most of whom have prickly heat themselves.

1.—Bathe frequently in water of moderate temperature. Hot water opens the pores too wide, cold water shuts them up and irritates the skin, and salt water makes the prickly heat spread like a prairie fire.

2.—Drink water in abundance to dilute the salt content of perspiration. If water is used plentifully there is a possibility that the bathing can keep up with the accumulation of irritant salts on the skin.

3.—Avoid tight fitting clothing, and never wear woollens in hot weather. Friction is the advance agent of prickly heat, as proved by the ancient Greeks.

4.—Use soothing solutions and dusting powders to dry the skin, but do not scratch, for eczema lurks in the finger nails.

Touch Not Canadian Whiskey, Says Court To Revenue Officers

(Reuter's Service)

Detroit, August 9.—The United States District Court has issued a temporary injunction, restraining the American revenue officials from interfering with shipments of bonded liquors through the United States to Mexico. The complainants — Messrs. Hiram Walker and Sons, Ltd., of Ontario—declared that such interference violated the Anglo-American Treaty of 1871.

WU PEI-FU WINS PLACE AS SUPER-TUCHUN; LULL IN WAR; MUNITIONS FAIL

Chang Tso-lin, Mukden Warlord, Defied By Peking Which Named His Greatest Rival Head Of Lianghu Provinces Under Excuse Of Hunan Emergency—Hsiao Is Made Hupeh Tuchun

STOP FIGHTING URGE GENERALS

Hunanese Lack Cartridges But Men Fight Bravely On With Antique Fowling Pieces, Spears And Swords And Utterly Rout Wang's Army

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, August 10 (7 p.m.).—The government has issued its mandate appointing General Wu Pei-fu as High Inspector General of Hunan and Hupeh, and making his second in command, Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh vice Wang Chan-yan, resigned.

To preserve peace on the Upper Yangtsze, General Swen Chuan-fan, former chief of staff of Ex-Tuchun Wang, will be named commander of the upper river region and on him will depend the safety of traffic above the Wuhan cities.

Wang Chan-yuan fled to Kiukiang the moment he learned that his off tendered resignation was accepted.

The removal of his headquarters by Wu Pei-fu from Honanfu to Wuchang is thought probable, as he now has a position equal to that of Tsao Kun and it would not be expedient for him to maintain his headquarters in the territory of his former chief.

It will be noted that this action of the Government contravenes the previous agreement made with Chang Tso-lin to place Chang Hsun, the man who tried to restore the Manchus, as commander of the Yellow River region. The Government gives as its plea for this sudden change of face, that the resignation of Tuchun Wang had created an emergency which had to be met in the manner resolved upon.

On With War, Hsiao Says, After Hearing Hunan Terms

(Staff Wire to The China Press)

Hankow, August 10 (6:15 p.m.)—Commander Hsiao Yao-nan has sent a representative to interview Chiang Tso-pin, Commander of the Allied Hunan-Hupeh forces in order to effect a compromise. The conditions under which the compromise is to Hunan are:

First, the deportation of all Wang Chan-yuan's men from Hupeh;

Second, Northern troops must not be stationed in Hupeh province in future;

Third, recognition of Hsiao Yao-nan as the Tuchun of Hupeh;

Fourth, the formation of the proposed self-governing provincial confederation.

Hsiao Yao-nan after being informed of the terms declared that he was determined to fight the obstinate Southerners. His troops are in good fighting trim at the frontier and the troops under the command of Chang Fu-lai have arrived in port. Chao Chieh is co-operating with Hsiao.

Ex-President Li Yuan-hung, Chow Shu-mow, Tien Wen-lieh and Hsiung Hai-ling are strongly advocating an immediate armistice.

Commander Sun Chuan-fang, has been appointed to defend the Upper Reaches of the Yangtsze.

The panic in Wuchang is over and the city is quiet again.

Chihli Forces Hard Hit When Reinforcing Wang

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 7.—According to a private telegram received here yesterday, fighting has ceased between the Hunan and Hupeh troops along the Southern border of Hupeh. The troops under General Chin Yun-hsiao, which were sent from Chihli to reinforce General Wang Chan-yuan's forces are stated to have suffered a heavy reverse on Friday. It is further stated that General Hsiao Yao-nan paid another visit to General Wang at Wuchang yesterday, and that General Hsiao's troops are being stationed at Wuchang and throughout the neighboring district. No official confirmation of these statements has been received.

Hankow, August 9.—Two new divisions are being formed to be sent to Hupeh, under the commands of Generals Chang Tso-hsiang and Kung Keng.

General Hsiao Yao-nan has returned to Wuchang and Puchi.

All fighting has stopped.

Peking, August 9.—A Mandate has been sealed, and is ready for issue, appointing General Wu Pei-fu Inspector-General of Hunan and Hupeh, General Hsiao Yao-nan Tuchun of Hupeh, and General Sun Chuan-fong Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the Upper Yangtsze.

It is reported that General Chang Tso-lin has telegraphed to the Government, resigning his post as High Commissioner for Mongolia.

A special mandate this evening will accept the resignation of General Wang Chuan-yuan.

Hongkong, August 9.—It is reported that, owing to the refusal of the Kwangsi commanders to surrender their munitions, General Chen Chiung-ming has cancelled the truce, and is threatening to attack Muming(?) and Lungchow.

Finns Plan Trade Treaty With Latvia

(Reuter's Service)

Riga, August 9.—Preliminary measures have been taken for the conclusion of a commercial treaty between Finland and Latvia.

Hsiao's First Order Is To Chastise South

Hankow, August 10 (5:45 p.m.)—Fighting has not been resumed by the Hunan troops which are in serious need of ammunition as supplies sent forward from Canton have proved utterly inadequate for further advances, although sufficient to defeat the half hearted troops sent forward by General Wang.

In previous fights, one rifle has been made to serve two and sometimes three soldiers, the remainder using spears, crude match lock fowling pieces and swords. Despite this the soldiers bravely rushed Wang's troops and inflicted heavy casualties upon them as they were put to flight.

Hundreds of Wang's soldiers surrendered and were disarmed to be sent captives to Changsha. During the Puchi and Yangloutung fights, the casualties amounted to more than two thousand. Wang's men who were dispersed later were captured for the most part.

In skirmishes fought near Shasi the Hunan troops have been successful and Chow Yun-wha is frantically wiring for reinforcements as the capture of Shasi by the Hunan troops is imminent unless more troops support him.

Hsiao Now Is Tuchun Of Hupeh, Vice Wang

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, August 9 (7:30 p.m.)—The Peking Government has wired to General Hsiao Yao-nan, second in command to Wu Pei-fu, appointing him Tuchun of Hupeh and advising him that the confirmatory mandate had been issued. Tuchun Wang's resignation has been accepted, and Hsiao's appointment followed hard upon a petition of the Hankow civilian organisations that Wang's successor be appointed immediately.

'Stop War,' Urge Generals, We Are Killing Brothers

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 8.—The fate of General Wang Chan-yuan is expected to be decided tomorrow when the Government will either dismiss him or accept his resignation. Wang prefers to resign and as his resignation has twice been tendered it will probably be accepted.

The Government is also said to have decided to promote General Hsiao Yao-nan to the post of Tuchun of Hupeh, leaving open for a few days at least the post of High Inspecting General which Wang will also give up.

So far no protests have been received from General Chang Tso-lin concerning the proposal to place Hsiao in the chair of the military governor but the proposal to promote General Wu Pei-fu to the rank of a Super-Tuchun may not pass over so easily.

It is generally known that Chang and Wu are not friendly. Chang fearing that Wu through his popularity may become the most powerful militarist in China. The Government on the other hand believes that the appointment of General Wu would please all the warring parties.

A second hindrance may be a decision of Wu himself to decline the post as he has often said that there should be a change in methods of handling Governmental matters.

"KILLING OUR BROTHERS"

In the meantime, the war is still on in the Yangtsze Valley though it consists mostly of skirmishes. The main armies of Generals Hsiao and Chao Heng-ti have not yet gone into action. A few days will see the end of all military action in the valley, it is believed.

Generals Hsiao and Chin Yun-ao, brother of the Premier, have advised the immediate cessation of all hostilities. In a letter sent to the Government they call attention to the fact that many of the enemy have already been killed and that these are Chinese people, entitled by all the laws of the land and of nature to live. In General Chao's army, they say, are many students of the lower and middle schools, untrained and unfit for military service.

"If we kill these students we really kill ourselves for they are our brothers," wrote the Generals. "We are therefore convinced that this war cannot go on. We propose that there be no more fighting and that peace be brought about.

Peking Defies Mukden By Promotion Of Wu Pei-fu

Pay Up Before You Go Hsiao Advises Wang

Hankow, August 10 (3:20 p.m.).—"Please pay up what the people charge you have embezzled," is the message that Wang Chan-yuan received from the new Tuchun Hsiao Yao-nan in addition to the other sad news that Wang's resignation had been accepted by Peking.

According to the messenger, Wang's reply was volley of vituperation against Wu Pei-fu and all his adherents especially Hsiao Yao-nan.

Wang's troops, defeated in their battles with Hunan forces are being disarmed and disbanded by Hsiao without any ceremony and are not to become banditti as that is not to be a healthy occupation now.

Wu's Mandate Issued; Civil Gov. In Question

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, August 10 (3:20 p.m.).—Formal notification has now been received of the appointment, by mandate, of General Wu Pei-fu as High Inspecting Commissioner of the Llangtu provinces (Hupeh and Hunan) while the same mandate names Hsiao Yao-nan as Tuchun of Hupeh. Tang Shang-ming may get the civil governorship as he was former Tuchun of Hunan, but this position is also desired by Tien Ven-lieh, a former Minister of the Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

Want All China To Advise On Conference

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 8.—The office of Foreign Affairs was today reported to have planned a contest to which all Chinese citizens will be admitted. The contestants are to write papers giving their ideas of the procedure China should adopt in the coming Washington Conference.

The Foreign Office is expected to appoint judges to read the papers and a schedule of prizes and rules governing the contest will be issued shortly.

The Foreign Office, according to the report, is eager to obtain all the suggestions and ideas possible before the Conference opens, hence the prize essay contest.

In the meantime the discussions of proposed programs and of the selection of a delegation will proceed. Reports from Canton say that C. T. Wang will not be acceptable to Dr. Sun Yat-sen who favors C. C. Wu or his father, Wu Ting-fang, former Chinese Minister to America.

Passion For Dueling Revives In Hungary

6,000 Challenges Recorded In The Last Six Months—Three Fatal Encounters

Budapest, June 22.—The passion for dueling, which slumbered in Hungary during the war, is breaking out with increased violence, according to a report of the Ministry of Home Affairs just made public. About 6,000 challenges to fight were recorded in the last six months, and in 350 cases combats were fought without serious results. There were three killings.

Trifling incidents have been the cause of some encounters. Treading on a man's foot in an overcrowded street car or calling a person a "fool" might impel two solemn-looking gentlemen in full dress and top hats to call on you on behalf of the offended person, requesting you to name your seconds.

As a rule the conference leads to explanations, apologies and a protocol embodying these important facts to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. But when the insult is considered too gross or the offender too stubborn, the seconds rule that only blood can wash out the insult, and they fix the conditions of the next morning's encounter, with light or heavy swords—the combatants sometimes to wear bandages—or with pistols. The combat then takes place in one of the fencing schools, or, when fought with pistols, in some deserted meadow outside the town.

Political antagonists frequently change arguments for weapons, and a heated debate in Parliament is generally followed by a couple of duels. Even Ministers have to accept the challenge of an opposition member, and it is still remembered that the late Count Stephen Tisza, when Prime Minister, fought nine duels with his political opponents.

Under the penal code of Hungary, an armed combat is a punishable misdemeanor. Sometimes when combatants are tried and sentenced to a few months' imprisonment, they serve their terms in a special establishment of detention, an opera bouffe prison, [illegible] themselves with outside food, drink and furniture, take outdoor exercise and receive any number of visitors.

Dueling is regarded as a class-privilege of the gentry, the nobility and, by tacit consent, of the learned professions. The working man is excluded from this "benefit of chivalry," and if the duelist be a workman, ordinary judicial proceedings may be taken against him. On the other hand, should any male member of the so-called privileged classes refuse to accept a challenge, he would inevitably be blacklisted by his clubs and spurned by friends as a coward.

All efforts to abolish this ludicrous situation and tradition have heretofore failed. The sentiment of the aristocracy is so overwhelmingly against what they call the cowardice of those who possess the moral courage to condemn dueling, that some members of the Anti-Dueling League have been compelled to yield to the pressure of public opinion and fight when challenged.

and experts presented repo... the subject.

Colonel Heywood, formerly attached to the Greek Army, stated that the Greeks' capture of Eskishehr and Afiun-Kara-Hissar had conferred on them a freedom of movement which might have far-reaching consequences. He declared that the capabilities of the Greek Army were underestimated.

It is believed that the Powers have decided to accept the first request made, either by Greece or Turkey, for mediation.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 9.—Monday's sitting of the Supreme Council, devoted to the hearing of the experts, clearly established the respective points of view of the French and British delegations on the subject of the apportionment of Upper Silesia. Mr. Lloyd George and M. Briand, who expressed at the outset of the sitting their desire to handle the subject in a spirit of friendly collaboration and their hope of arriving at a solution, did not conceal the fact that the hearing of the experts revealed to them new points of view on the problem.

Viscount Ishii expressed his firm conviction that a solution would be found.

The first expert heard by the Supreme Council was M. Fromageon, President of the Allied Commission, whose views received the unanimous approbation of the members of the Council. According to his arguments, the plebiscite territory could be divided, and the terms of the Treaty of Versailles demanded that this should be taken into consideration. He brought up the question of voting by communes.

CANNOT SPLIT TRIANGLE

The British view of the matter was that the industrial region, comprising the five towns with a German majority, adjoining communes, and known as the Silesian triangle, should be treated as an indivisible whole.

The British expert insisted on the economic unity of this region, and demonstrated the undesirability of allowing a German "clan," as large as that which would be formed by the five towns of the industrial triangle in this zone, to exist, if it were allocated to Poland.

The French expert, M. Laroche, replied that the British proposal for the delimitation of the industrial zone was arbitrary, inasmuch as it would cut off the zinc mines from the factories which employed this metal.

The Petit Parisien asserts that Sir Cecil Hurst has himself recognised that the figures of the plebiscite should be regarded as a whole, and accepts the view that the plebiscite gives seven-elevenths of the votes to Germany and four-elevenths to Poland.

CRITICISE TRIANGLE IDEA

The theory of the indivisibility of the industrial triangle was subjected to careful criticism by Signor Branca, on behalf of the Italian delegation.

The press emphasises that it has emerged from the conversations which have taken place between the Prime Ministers and from the explanations offered, that the impression made on the Supreme Council by the experts is that the divergence of views is less irreconcilable than would be supposed from the views expressed in certain English journals.

The Intransigeant understands that Mr. Lloyd George has expressed his disapproval of some of the intemperate language employed in the London press.

"There can be, or there ought to be, an understanding: such is the conclusion to be derived from the first sitting of the Supreme Council," says the Petit Parisien in an editorial.

THREE BITTEN BY DOGS

Three cases of Chinese being bitten by dogs were reported to the Police Tuesday, the victims in each instance being sent to the Health Office for treatment and two of the dogs being placed under observation at the Municipal kennels. The animal in the third instance, belonging to Mr. F. Large, 21 Yu Yuen Road, died shortly after having bitten a coolie employed by Mr. Large. The carcase was removed to the Municipal laboratories to determine whether the dog had rabies. Of the other two victims, one was a Public Works Department coolie who was working on Tsangchow Road when attacked and the other was a beggar woman who was bitten by a pointer belonging to a Japanese living in Park Terrace.

Yonosuke Mitsui Was Head Of Biggest Trading Concern In Japan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 9.—The death is announced of Mr. Yonosuke Mitsui, President of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha.

The death of Yonosuke Mitsui, President of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, marks the passing of one of the dominant figures of Japanese commerce and a prominent member of the famous Mitsui family whose members control Japan's greatest business interests and handle more than one fifth of the entire import and export trade of the Empire, a business that runs in the aggregate to the colossal sum of one billion gold dollars annually.

The late Mr. Yonosuke Mitsui was one of the founders of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha. This enterprise was launched by him and the late Takenosuke Mitsui in 1876 to supplement activities of other Mitsui interests that had been developing and expanding steadily since the early part of the seventeenth century when the Mitsui family of Kyoto opened branches of their drapery business in Osaka and Yedo (now Tokio).

The chief object of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha when it was launched was to engage in the direct import and export trade of Japan with foreign countries, which at that time was entirely in the hands of foreign merchants at treaty ports. The company's initial capital was Gold $500,000 but as its business expanded by leaps and bounds the original capital soon became inadequate to cope with the situation and it was therefore raised to Gold $15,000,000 in the 1909 and subsequently, in February, 1918 to Gold $50,000,000—fully paid up.

The principal articles of the company's export trade are raw silk, silk textiles, coal, cotton and cotton products, timber, beans, cereals, flour, sugar, copper and other metals, oils, camphor, matches, paper, canned goods, tea, sulphur and miscellaneous goods.

The company is perhaps the largest handler of raw silk in the world, supplying a fourth of Japanese silk exported to America, all besides supplying European markets. It also controls 40 percent of Japan's entire output of coal. The credit of having been the first exporter of Manchurian beans to Europe and of lumber to America and Europe must also be awarded to the company. The company's principal imports are raw cotton, sugar, machinery of all kinds, ships, steel bridges, locomotives and railway equipment, steel, iron, rice, wool, dyes, drugs, timber and a long list of raw materials.

Though the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha owns a fleet of 29 large steamers aggregating over 120,600 tons for its exclusive use these are nevertheless wholly inadequate for the company's requirements and it is one of the greatest charterers of tonnage in London and the East.

Messages that have been received here say that Mr. Yonosuke Mitsui died at 7 o'clock in the evening from an attack of inflammation of the brain.

In The U.S. Court For China

In the breach of promise suit Miss Henrietta Weil versus J. ... Wright, a demurrer that was interposed by Attorney F. J. Schuhl, representing the defendant was overruled yesterday in the United States Court for China by Judge C. S. Lobingier.

The contention advanced in the demurrer was that by reason of the statute of limitations allegations made in the plaintiff's petition could not be entertained. The plaintiff is represented by Mr. P. W. Goldring. In the decision the defendant is given ten days within which to file an answer to the petition. The rest of the Court's ruling is as follows:

Defendant demurs to an amended petition alleging an engagement in June, 1917 to marry; seduction in reliance upon defendant's promise and defendant's refusal "on or about June 7, 1921," in spite of plaintiff's willingness; defendant's marriage to another and plaintiff's "damage by reason of such seduction and the defendant's breach of his promise to marry."

The principal point argued in the demurrer is that the action is barred by the Statute of Limitations which in cases of seduction is one year. But as we read the amended petition it is not at least exclusively, an action for seduction; it is quite as much an action for breach of promise and in that respect it differs from the authorities cited by defendant's counsel which were actions either exclusively for seduction or where that was the principal ground and the promise of marriage was merely "set out as one of the inducements."

The demurrer does not allege misjoinder and we are not called upon to determine whether two causes of action are stated in the petition. It is sufficient, as we have heretofore held, as against a demurrer if the pleading states a cause of action for any relief. Now the petition before us clearly does allege a promise to marry and its breach and an action on a contract "not expressed in writing" may be brought within two years from the accrual of the cause of action which would of course be the breach of the contract.

It is clear therefore that the petition states a cause of action for a breach of promise to marry and in the absence of a demurrer for misjoinder or of a motion to elect we must hold the petition sufficient.

The demurrer is accordingly overruled and defendant is allowed the usual ten days to answer.

By the Court.
Charles S. Lobingier,
Judge.

Council Replies To Civic League's Salaries Inquiry

The Municipal Council's reply to Shanghai Civic League's letter ing for more information re- ing the pay of Municipal em- yes is contained in today's Muni- al Gazette.

The Civic League inquiry, which published in these columns re- v, asked that more details be out as to the actual monthly to employes of the various and departments of all re- ation, inclusive of salary and her emoluments and pri- The Council's answering follows:

Council Room,
Shanghai, August 2, 1921.

Sir:—I am directed to acknow- ge the receipt of your letter July 20, on the subject of nicipal Salaries, and note that matter has been under dis- sion by the Committee of the ic League, and that, as you ve the present proposals by Council will be acceptable to majority of the ratepayers, no reasonable objection can rged against them, it is not intention of the Committee to a special meeting of rate- ers to discuss the matter.

With respect, however, to your gestion that a popular demand ts for specific details as to ne of allowances, medical ex- es, contribution to expenses on leave, contributions to nuation fund, etc., over e normal salary calculat- on the various bases mention- I have to comment as follows:

ALLOWANCES RESTRICTED

1.—There are no allowances ch are applicable to all em- yes, but certain employes com- ed to reside in certain dis- ts, such as District Inspectors, , or required to undertake cial duty, such as slaughter- se duty, etc., receive allow- es accordingly ranging from 10 to Tls. 30 added to their so long as they continue to form such duties or reside in district allotted to them, and ra Pay is also granted to As- ant Inspectors, etc., after ing certain examinations. Extra Pay, which is added to nominal pay of Tls. 135 per nsem is really the equivalent increased pay as length of ser- and efficiency increase. The n in which it is given, how- r (i.e., as Extra Pay), makes increases dependent upon nal ability to pass the pres- ed examinations.

t seems scarcely requisite, rever, to go at length into all se details; since they are set h in the various Annual Re- ts, with which, of course, you familiar, particularly the Re- ts for 1909 and 1910, pp. 294 301 respectively.

2.—In the case of certain for officers, a locomotion allow- e of Tls. 50 per mensem is vided in accordance with the ns of their engagement and ch are set forth in their res- ive agreements.

3.—A plain clothes allowance given to certain employes narily entitled to uniform but for special reasons are re- ed to perform their duties heir own clothes (vide Report 8: p. 272).

4.—A special allowance in res- of his motor bicycle is pro- d for the Superintendent of ks, having regard to the fact his duties lie in widely rated parts of the Settle- t.

MEDICAL ATTENDANCE

5.—Medical Attendance; Under ract: Tls. 20 per annum is able in respect of each em- e and Tls. 30 per annum in ect of the wives and children uch employes as are married, contract also limits the charge operations. Full details of contract are set forth in the tte of July 7, 1921.

6.—There are no Contributions Expenses when on leave of nce, but where, as in two or e cases in recent years, an loye has been specially direct- o proceed to Europe to per- n certain work on the Coun- behalf, his expenses are, of se, paid; also when special k, such as inspections, etc., required, out of pocket ex- es to and from the locality of course paid.

No other bonuses are ed except the language ses, applicable only to em- es of the outdoor staff, in ect of which the details ap- in the Gazette of July 14, ; and on page 273 of the ort for 1908.

8.—Contributions to Super- uation Fund. A compulsory de- tion of 5 percent is made the pay of every employe r agreement, and the Council thereto 10 percent, the whole mulating under certain fixed

Theoretically, therefore, employes entitled to quarters first paid the assessed value of the quarters, but pay it back again in the form of rent. Thus the Superannuation of both is calculated on the same basis.

A reply to the fourth paragraph of your letter is impossible. For instance the Council cannot tell what an unmarried employe would draw in respect of an illness, which had not taken place, nor what he would draw in respect of Chinese study, unless and until he had passed the requisite examinations.

The supplementary report of the Salaries Commission on Superannuation, etc., will be published in due course.

As regards the procedure adopted in making appointments, such naturally varies with the nature of the appointment. New employes with technical qualifications are as a general rule engaged from Europe, but where suitable candidates are available locally, advantage is taken of the opportunity. Discretion in making recommendations with respect to appointments is necessarily left largely in the hands of the Head of the Department concerned, but I may inform you that in the course of a year, many are tried and are found wanting.

The number of junior appointments in the council's service is limited, and there appears to be no objection to hold competitive examinations, but I may assure you that it would not necessarily follow that the candidate obtaining the highest marks would necessarily receive an appointment, as owing to the conditions obtaining in Shanghai, it by no means follows that a high aggregate of marks denotes the possession of other requisite qualifications.

The Council is of opinion that the same principle could not be adopted for Chinese employes.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
E. S. B. Rowe,
Acting Secretary.

Keen-Eared Detective Catches Counterfeiter

One source of supply for the familiar counterfeit ten or twenty cent pieces which clog the flow of local currency was effectually plugged on Tuesday night by a keen eared Chinese detective who paused to investigate a musical clinking which emanated from a house at 131 Penang Road.

Hearing the chink, chink, chink the detective became so curious that he borrowed a stool from an indifferent nearby watchman and stood atiptoe to glance into the window. Inside he saw a Chinese industriously turning small coins out of a mould, while a woman burnished the output with a bit of cloth. Forcing his way inside he arrested the two and took charge of ten moulds, a battery, a quantity of metal, a set of scales and 217 newly minted ten-cent and 78 twenty-cent pieces. Later he found another man asleep on a mattress stuffed with still other spurious coins.

The men in the case received sentences of eighteen months and a year at the Mixed Court yesterday, the woman being dismissed with a warning.

BIG OPIUM CASE UP FOR HEARING IN MIXED COURT

Third Man Charged In Connection With $200,000 Seizure

The quarter-million dollar opium case, which follows the seizure of 3,417 pounds of smuggled drug in a godown at 349 Tiendong Road came up for hearing before Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui in the Mixed Court yesterday when a third man was charged.

A book introduced by the police and containing entries which are believed to be code references to opium deals, furnished the principal point of interest in the hearing. The entries included references to "small earth," "large earth" and "red earth," which the principal accused stated were in connection with transactions in precious stones.

The principal accused, Wang Jong, describes himself at manager and partner of the Wah Foong Oil Factory, 51 North Szechuen Road, the address to which callers at the Tiendong Road godown were directed. He and the second accused are represented in the case by Mr. Goldring, Mr. F. J. Schulal also appearing for the second accused and Mr. H. D. Rodger for the third accused, the alleged lessee of the godown in which the opium was found. Mr. Langley Smith prosecuted the case for the police.

The godown keeper, previously held for appearance under Tls. 10,000 security, testified that a previous cargo, boxed similarly to that seized, had been received at the place but declared that he had not been allowed present when it was removed. This witness was ordered released from security after his testimony had been taken.

The first accused, Wang Jong, stated that he had sublet the godown to the third accused and knew nothing of any opium. He was a friend of the third accused, he said, but when cross-examined could not tell what the third accused's business might be, having only known him "about a year."

Expert testimony was introduced by the police tending to show that the opium was Persian opium and about two years old.

Bail for the third accused was set by the court at Tls. 10,000. The first and second accused are on Tls. 50,000 and Tls. 20,000 security respectively. The case was adjourned until next Wednesday.

Revise Figures On New Szechuen Road Bridge

Following a reconsideration of the specifications it has been decided to increase the width of the new Szechuen Road bridge across Soochow Creek, according to announcement in this week's Municipal Gazette.

The width originally planned for the new span was 56 feet, comprising a carriage way of 36 feet and two footways of 10-feet width each. It has now been decided to make the carriageway 42 feet in width and the footways 9 feet, giving a total width of 60 feet. The additional cost is estimated at approximately Tls. 30,000.

The widening of the bridge is considered necessary to meet the growing demands of traffic and fits in with the proposed widening of Szechuen Road from 40 to 70 feet which was announced recently.

Barr's Flyers Have Rough Sailing On Tour Of Japan

Barnstorming through the mining camps in the days when audiences were apt to indicate disapproval by shooting up the show evidently entailed no more of hazard and annoyance than may be met by the foreign impresario who tries to tour amusements through Japan, if the experiences of Barr's Flying Circus are any criterion.

Mr. W. Burt Barr, head of the aerial entertainment organisation mentioned, which has been active in the States for several years, arrived in Shanghai yesterday by the steamer Monteagle, having, he states, "barely escaped with his life and the life of his companions." His equipment is all held in Japan.

The story Mr. Barr has to tell of his experience since he arrived in the island kingdom last March is a running recital of trouble, beginning with the alleged nonpayment of money due under contract by the Japanese promoters and winding up with the beating up of members of the Circus by employes of the promoters and the storming of the Oriental Hotel at Kobe by a mob of the latter who were only dispersed when a second call for police reserves was sent out. Mr. Barr has filed a complete account of his troubles with the American Consul at Kobe for transmission to the State Department at Washington. Meanwhile he is making preparations to give performances in China, endeavoring to secure airplanes and building a balloon to replace one which was burned in Japan.

The troubles of the Circus began almost as soon as the troupe arrived in Tokio, Mr. Barr said yesterday. His contract with the Japanese promoter, one Yumoto Kushibiki, signed in San Francisco, was on a guarantee and percentage basis. When the show opened, to big attendances, in Tokio the attendance figures of the performers and of the promoter were widely different. The differences continued and finally a new contract was drawn up, on a flat guarantee basis.

Then the promoter began to get back in his payments, Mr. Barr states, until by July 15 there was Yen 20,000 owing. At one place the director held up the show until a payment was made. An appeal to Kushibiki for funds with which to continue the tour met with a refusal and it was decided to give an independent performance to secure the money. Mr. Barr sent one of his performers and three Japanese to the express office in Nishinomiya to transport the necessary equipment to the race course at Naruo. The quartette were attacked and beaten by coolies at the instigation, Mr. Barr declares, of local promoters to whom Kushibiki had farmed out performance rights. An appeal for protection to the Nishinomiya chief of police, Mr. Barr says, was refused on the ground that the local promoters had arranged for a performance which was not given.

Several days later more grief developed when all the party's personal effects were attached for a hotel bill at Kokura. Hotel expense was to have been paid by the promoter. Mr. Barr dashed back to Tokio to confer with Kushibiki and visit the American Embassy and finally secured the deposit of Yen 1,700 against the hotel bill. In consideration two daytime and two night performances were arranged.

A performance was given in Kobe August 1, during which one of the local promoters, taken under protest as a passenger got his feet tangled in the controls, causing his own death when the plane crashed to earth, injuring the pilot and wrecking the machine.

August 2 a machine was damaged in a test flight landing. It could not be repaired in time to continue the day's program. The promoters insisted on an exhibition, even if it involved the inflating of the balloon, to which Mr. Barr objected on account of the high wind. He finally consented however and the balloon took fire. The promoters demanded return of the money already paid.

The next day removal of equipment was blocked. The day following the representatives of the original promoter and the local promoters arranged with Mr. Barr for flights on August 5 or 6, under which consideration he returned the money received on the 2nd and was assured that he would be free to move his equipment. Later this arrangement was cancelled and when efforts were made last Friday to get the equipment aboard the Monteagle a coolie force was on hand to intervene. The hotel management advised the party to stay in their rooms and a report was made to the American Consul. The local promoters arrived at the Oriental Hotel and barred the exits demanding return of money paid the hotel. Mr. Barr states that to avoid trouble he agreed, if they would allow the loading of his machines. They refused and in the evening, reenforced to the number of about eighty, took possession of the whole lower floor of the hotel, which they occupied until a second reserve force of police arrived, and the party was able to get away to the ship.

Yale-In-China Men Guests At Dinner

New Haven Grads Gather For Pleasant Function

Yale men in Shanghai gathered for a pleasant reunion and dinner at the Union Club, Tuesday evening when Dr. E. H. Hume and Dr. F. C. Yen, of Yale-in-China, Changsha, were entertained as guests of honor. Dr. Hume has just returned from a two years' stay in America and Dr. Yen is leaving for the States.

Twenty Yale graduates were present when President M. Y. Chung, of the class of '83, called them to order for the purpose of electing new officers. Those named are: president, W. P. Roberts, '09; vice-presidents, Dr. T. H. Lee, '99, and J. F. Stevens, Jr., '09; treasurer, S. C. Chu, '10; secretary, W. J. Wen, '18.

Yale songs enlivened the dinner, following which Dr. Yen spoke on the scheme for a union university in China, which would unite all American university enterprises, urging Yale men to support the plan. Dr. Hume also spoke and showed lantern slides of recent scenes at New Haven.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which, in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," & "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

JOSEPHINE'S STOLEN NECKLACE A MYTH

Parisians Unanimous In Denying Story Of Its Theft And Recovery

Paris, July 1.—Paris is being entertained with a pretty story of an amber "love-collar" which Napoleon gave to Josephine—a collar which which was stolen from the Louvre 25 years ago; for which the French Chamber of Deputies offered a reward of $150,000; for which French detectives scored the world; which two Americans bought for $25 in the Chinese quarter of San Francisco, and which Tiffany's of New York bought for 85,000 francs to give it back to the French Government.

But pretty as it is, the story has holes in it. In the first place, the Louvre never had such a collar in its collection. In the second place, the Chamber of Deputies never offered any reward for it, and in the third place the French police, French officials and French experts never heard of such a collar.

The story was received and published at its face value as it came from New York. The Paris newspaper at once started an investigation.

The Figaro says the tale is one of the prettiest it has ever heard, but adds:

"However, neither French antiquaries, nor the French police, nor the French newspapers have any information about this famous collar, so well described from America. We have interrogated at least 20 persons—police officials, directors of our museums and experts. Not one of them ever heard of this famous robbery from the Louvre. We went through all the newspaper files for 25 years and had not better luck. We do not say that Napoleon never gave Josephine the necklace, but they know more about it in America than we do in France."

The Matin sent a representative to see M. Mignon, Director of the the Louvre, who said he had never heard of the amber necklace, and certainly it was never in the Louvre. After a search of the records of the Chamber of Deputies the Matin says that no reward was ever offered for the recovery of Josephine's collar.

Excelsior's investigation took its reporter to see Henri Verne of the staff of the National Museums, who said:

"Josephine's collar was never stolen from the Louvre for the good reason that it was never there. Nor in our archives is there any mention of any such piece. I do not say it does not exist, but we know nothing about it."

Jean Bourguignon, custodian of Josephine's home at Malmaison, was also without knowledge of the necklace.

"The necklace story looks like a canard," he said.

Excelsior asked for information from the Paris branch of Tiffany's but could get no news of the restoration to the Louvre of an amber necklace which it had never lost.

Present Situation In Siberia

BY B. HAYTON FLEET

(Note: Mr. Fleet is of the firm of Hayton Fleet & Co., 77 Szechuen Road, Shanghai, which has carried on business in the East and in Russia for many years. Its head office is in London.)

A few months ago an article of mine on the present position of affairs in Soviet Russia was published in this paper and this was followed a few weeks later by an interview with a representative of the Far Eastern Republic.

So far the course of events in Soviet Russia is following the opinions that I expressed and we find that the peasants are now free to sell their produce, small property owners are permitted to take back their own and small factories and mills are allowed to work for their own account. Shops are being opened in every town and month by month the situation is improving and matters returning to normal conditions but we are still a very long way from conditions of other countries.

A few days ago I met in Harbin a gentleman who had just arrived from Riga and was surprised to learn from him that journey from Moscow to Irkutsk took only eight days whereas from Irkutsk to Harbin took a month. This gentleman told me that he had to get 42 visas to get through and every visa required a certain amount of gratuity to certain commissars so that traveling was by no means pleasant. He had taken a cargo of manufactured goods into Russia and had exchanged the same for wool, hides and bristles, which he has brought out through Siberia.

EVOLUTION IS BULWARK

There is much talk of many young men going back and joining the army and that these young men will gradually spread revolution in the army but I still maintain my opinion that the Soviet Government is capable of changing all its laws to the needs of the people and that evolution and not revolution will save the country.

The mails are now coming through from all parts of Russia to friends in Manchuria without any kind of censorship and therefore it is possible to get different opinions on the situation on the country. From this correspondence one learns that there is still trouble regarding the new laws and that goods have been seized in Moscow and Petrograd without the authority of the governing bodies but such lawlessness is now being put down with a strong hand. The peasants seem to be satisfied with the treatment they are receiving for the movement but as they are now able to get cash, they are sure to ask for further concessions which the Government will have to grant.

It is very evident from the correspondence that former wealthy people are being badly treated but those who fall in with the views of the government are able to secure good positions in the Government service and naturally the fusion of men of intelligence into this service must also have an effect on general views.

Trade is slowly but surely reviving and as trade revives, the whole situation must improve, currency once more become of some value and banking institutions be reopened.

As regards the situation in the Far Eastern Republic there is a very big advance taking place and during the past month surprising innovations have been introduced. I have just returned from a trip to Harbin and as far as the Amur river towns, and news from the latter places is certainly more assuring than before.

TRADE IS WAKING

At Chita itself many shops are now open and trade is rapidly waking up and so many firms have sent in goods that prices have dropped. Two British concerns have opened their offices in the town, one taking in $200,000 worth of goods, while Russian and Chinese merchants are freely carrying goods of all kinds into the country.

On the Amur, the peasants are bringing in wheat and oats and bartering same for manufactured goods of every kind and to towns such as Habarovsk and Blagovestchensk are waking up, though the best part of the trade is being carried on by Chinese who carry their goods in steamers under the Chinese flag. Private steamship ownership for Russians is not yet permitted but there are signs that it soon will be.

Steamers under the Chinese flag are running from Harbin to Habarovsk and one Chinese owner has even sent two boats regularly down the river to Nikolaievsk on Amur, trading with the villages all the way along.

It is a very curious point that though the Japanese are in occupation of part of Eastern Siberia, it is the Chinese who are doing the trade along the river under their own flag, with no objection from the Russian authorities. So far this season no boat flying the Japanese flag has come up or down the Amur though there are at least five large river steamers at Harbin belonging to Japanese.

WANT MORE WORK

The Far Eastern Republic is negotiating with former wealthy mill and works owners and in every case offering to restore them their property provided that they will start up manufactures in the country. These owners, who nearly all reside in Harbin have been making their own stipulations as to the conditions on which they will start again and the Government has gone as far as to offer to pay all losses that the owners have incurred. These losses are not to be paid in cash but are to be credited to the owners and all taxes or other Government dues will be debited to the amount credited until such time as the whole has been paid off. In some cases, the arrangements have already been completed and amongst others, the well known firm of Chiborin & Co. have received back their properties in Blagovestchensk on the above terms.

I could mention several other very large concerns that have also concluded their arrangements but the information having been given me in strict confidence I cannot give the names out.

Another move on the part of the Government is also very clever and will considerably relieve the acute financial position. Owing to the low value of the rouble and want of any kind of acceptable currency the Government is arranging with certain large institutions to issue their own currency under mortgage of their property which the Government is returning to them.

PRIVATE MONEY NOW

The firms which will issue such currency are so well known on the Amur that every peasant will accept notes bearing their names and in this way a certain amount of currency will come into circulation which everybody will accept. Such a scheme will restore confidence for the time being and if the Government can keep order and show that it is strong enough to rule the country, it will be able shortly to issue its own currency and in time do away with the private names.

Practically this idea is the same as we have seen in China for years but in China the currency has been issued by banks on their capital, whereas the Far Eastern Republic is proposing to have notes issued on actual property and make the currency absolutely safe. Thus, if a mill is valued at 2,000,000 roubles gold currency, this mill is held by the Government in trust against an issue of the above currency and the people know that these notes are fully secured.

There are other schemes being proposed to tempt capitalists to come back and re-open all their manufactories and generally the Government seems to be trying to get confidence established, the main point now being, has it the power and the strength to maintain law and order and stop all raiding and looting.

The largest part of the trade is being done by the Russian Cooperative Society, but it is absurd to suppose that one firm can supply the needs of this vast district.

FAMINE CONSEQUENCES

It is difficult to foresee the future as regards Eastern Siberia but there is no doubt that at the moment matters are gradually coming round to a normal position, the danger being that some new adventurer may come in and suddenly upset the Government.

In conclusion, I learned just before leaving Harbin on July 31 that many letters had been received from Soviet Russia during the second half of July pointing to the possibilities of a terrible famine owing to the great heat in the Southern Provinces and the consequent destruction of the wheat crops. This is a new factor in the situation which may completely alter the aspect of affairs, famine driving men to extreme methods, and with the uneducated Russian peasant population, such famine will be brought to the doors of the ruling government and there is no doubt that there are plenty of counter revolutionaries who will try to cause a new revolution, using the famine as the reason. If the news regarding famine is true we may see an upheaval this Autumn that will bury any government. Famine or no famine, the Russian position is likely to clear itself before the end of next year.

New Bank Functions Both Day And Night

Yesterday saw the opening of a new bank that is to function day and night. It is the Jih Yeh Yin Hang—translated literally the "Day and Night" Bank. The bank is capitalised at $500,000 and among its directors are Hsu Foochow, Superintendent of the Chinese Police, Ti Tsu-ching, founder of the Eastern Times and Wang Cho-chiu to whose initiative several amusement houses in Shanghai owe their existence. Mr. Wang is the manager of the Great World and is the managing director of the new bank. He was the chief promoter of the recently organised Day and Night Stock Exchange. The office hours of the bank are from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. The bank occupies a modern-style building opposite the Great World. It was profusely decorated yesterday with scrolls presented by friends and well-wishers. Deposits have been received in the sums of Tls. 210,000 and $288,500.

9TH CAVALRY GALLOPS OFF WITH FIRST GAME OF SERIES; CY'S HOMER SAVES A SHUTOUT

Visitors Show Class A Baseball That Will Be Hard To Beat; Pitching, Catching, Fielding And Batting All Earn The Win

The Ninth Cavalry baseball team easily galloped away with the first of the six game series with Shanghai yesterday afternoon, when as dusk was falling, and the final count was taken, the score registered 5-1 in the visitors' favor.

The win for the Manila team was honestly and truly earned, by speed ball pitching, by a catcher's peg to base that had Shanghai baserunners frozen close to their sacks, and by fielding that bordered upon the sensational, and the impossible. The visitors batted safely nine times including once for the whole circuit and once for a double. Shanghai on the other hand was somewhat backward with bingles. They were hitless until the sixth, and for the whole nine innings got but four safeties off Thompson's offerings.

In the warm-up before the play the Cavalrymen showed such class and speed and style as has not been seen on the local diamond this season. Martin, backstopping for the Ninth unfolded a bullet-like throw to base that won a howl of praise from the stands at each peg. His ball travelled from plate to second on a parallel line, with a peculiar little inshoot on it that would hook around and nestle in the baseman's glove just where a base-runner's calves might be were he sliding on a steal.

BILLS BRAVED THE PEG

That throw had the local men buffaloed as to base stealing. Only Bills was brave enough to buck that weird and deadly peg. And strange enough Bills made it with a pretty slide. It happened in the eighth inning. No one of the Shanghai men had attempted the steal in the earlier innings. Martin perhaps was so surprised at Bills audacity that he threw wide and low through sheer unpreparedness.

Thompson's pitching was of the first order. Speed, hooks, control, and everything were his. He fanned the first two men to face him. He totalled nine strikeouts for the game. His support was brilliant to say the least. He deserved to win his game.

Merrill pitched yesterday as well as he ever did. He was merely unfortunate. Crow's boot of Evans' bingle in the sixth, followed by Smith's fumble in handling Duff's single allowed one man a base, and two men to advance a station each, to positions from which they scored easily on Garnett's double.

Shanghai failed to support Merrill with the willow. Merrill did his pitching part nobly, but the failure of his team-mates in stickwork forced a lost game upon him. The Cavalrymen it is true were fielding like demons, each with a horse shoe in his glove, yet a few safe hits properly bunched might have told a different score.

THEY CHOKED OFF HITS

Lumkins' grab of Smith's drive in the fifth was an example of the cavalrymen's brilliance in defence. The hit was labelled a certain single, yet the visiting shortstopper pulled it down with a one-handed spear. Smith suffered again in the ninth when he drove one on a straight line well over Pearson's head toward right center. It would have been good for bases. But Pearson crouched as a hen seeking its nightly perch might and, timing the ball to the fraction of a second, flew high up into the air and speared it for an easy out. It was just such fielding that choked off Shanghai's hitting, and Shanghai's chances to win.

Mal Maloney was out in uniform yesterday for the first time after his sprained ankle a week ago Saturday. He coached the Shanghai men from the first base line. Hopkins, who had just recovered from a wrenched knee went out of the game in the first inning, after stopping Jordan's drive to right and pegging in to stop Savage who was enroute third. He wrenched his weak knee again, and Bristow had to relieve him. Sperry will probably handle the right garden today, with Terry pitching.

Today's game will be called at 4:30 o'clock.

The game yesterday play by play is herewith outlined:

FIRST INNING

Cavalry—Lumkins' grounder was easy for Crow, who threw him out at first. Savage got on when Wilhoit muffed Ladd's low throw of his grounder from near third. He stole second. Roeser

How Persia Starved To Aid The Fighting Roughtowners; Gink Supreme In Defeat

BY "BUGS" BAER

It was a fat day for Roughtown when the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sons of Revolutionary Bachelors finally succeeded in signing up Gink Fowler and Thumper Farnsworth for a purse of $6,000,000. At this time there was great dyspepsia and gout among the starving Persians. At least forty-five smackers were needed to buy the emaciated Persians another prayer rug and the Ladies' Auxiliary decided to dedicate their lives to uplifting the condition of the foreign branch of professional panhandlers.

Gink was to get the entire six million and Thumper was to get the war tax. Thumper was a peculiar boxer. He was as open as a yawn, loose as cinders, couldn't spank hard enough to dust the pollen off a bee's knees, never won a battle in fifteen years and always led with his nose, followed by a cross with his chin.

But he was game, in addition to being actuated by a nimble desire to bilk the Persians in their hour of need. By the time Gink got his bit and the expenses were deducted from the losses, there wouldn't be enough left to oil the hinges on a microbe trap.

PERSIANS PUT UP PURSE

The purse itself was collected among the non-eating Persians, who received beautifully embossed pictures of stock, suitable for framing.

Now, for a word about Roughtown. It was a typical American hamlet, with suburbs, taxes and amendments. This was the town that Tom Lewis spoke of in his monologue. Tom used to say that his brother was night Mayor of a little town out west. They had a day Mayor and a night Mayor. On big school days, a professor from Dupont's would address the pupils on proper care of the teeth in a riot, and health and sanitation in civic panics. A black eye was considered a testimonial, and a broken nose a vote of confidence by the Board of Directors.

The reception room of the Roughtown Hotel was finished off in black and blue. Three rings for ice water. Only two for an ambulance.

Roughtown isn't on the map. A census taken once tried to count the population but ran out of tombstones. An easterner started a saw-mill there, failed, and the Roughtown manicurist bought his buzz saw and opened up a branch office in the residential section of the best jail in town. The town ambulance wore its wheels right down to the hubs at all society receptions. Finally, they built the town hall right inside the hospital and saved millions on trips.

This was the scene of the big fight for the delicate Persians. Thumper stepped into the ring, full of confidence as a lamb on the dish. Gink climbed in two hours later, impatient to be at the throat of his victim like a collar button. They sparred for an opening and finally Thumper discovered it at the end of the hall. They brought him back and Gink started playing hide-and-seek with the tacks in the canvas.

Thumper's round. Gink picked one off the floor and laid it down reverently on Thumper's dimpled chin. Thumper fell into a male swoon. The starving Persians had all the best of it. Four fights started among the audience, who were determined to see a battle if they had to start it by taking up an involuntary subscription.

GINK CHARTER MEMBER

Thumper fiddled around outside the knuckle traffic zone and Gink put on a Greek dance in a neutral corner. Gink was a charter member of the Health Club and he didn't want to forfeit his franchise on a gala night like this. Their example proved contagious and the balcony raided the gallery to see how many eyes they could collect. The gallery won by four dozen teeth, which were thrown into the general fund for the Persians. The Persians' round. Steerage charges were raised by the ambulance admiral. Thumper reserved a suite in the accident ward and changed his tactics. He stretched an octave of Gink's nose and Gink tore on his battle maps. It was a war of attrition.

The carnage continued for sixteen rounds, while two Roughtown deacons climbed into the ring and made it a quartet. They tore off all the hoops on the Old Oaken Bucket. Copies of the song were on sale in the lobby after the performance. The novelty didn't appeal to the audience, who demanded "The Dying Gladiator" or some other lively air they could dance to.

If it hadn't been for eight armed bandits who tried to hold him up, the Roughtown bartender wouldn't have had any customers that night. The fight ended in the seventieth round, when Gink slapped Thumper on the back of the face and curdled his brains.

It was a good fight, but hardly up to the standard set by the Roughtown children at play. Gink was still champion, and Thumper left the ring a more defeated man than usual. The Persians got their prayer rug and are still paying instalments on it.

DEMPSEY EARNED VICTORY; FRENCH FIGHTER IS GAME

Cinema Pictures Of Historic Ring Battle Settle All Long-Distance Rows

Controversies that may have raged in the Far East and elsewhere as to whether Jack Dempsey earned his victory over Georges Carpentier came to an end last night so far as a large—and decidedly cosmopolitan—crowd that attended the cinema at St. George's Farm may spread the news.

The film shows that Dempsey led all the way through the fight and won his victory and that Carpentier is the gamest opponent that ever put up a losing battle against a superior ring general.

There was a remarkable reversal of form among the "fans" who attended the show as the picture of the fight progressed. Carpentier was an undoubted favorite when the first of the views were presented. And he lost none of his popularity when the cameras showed that he was outclassed from start to finish in the greatest fistic contest the world has known since the days of the bare-hand fighters of the Sullivan-Kilrane day.

But the tenor of public sentiment here was shown by the measure of applause. Carpentier held his following who appreciated his gameness and won that of the Dempseyites, who wore out gloves and blistered bare hands for the Frenchman while the champion had the appreciation of every patron who was not so ignorant of in-fighting as to lose the nicety of his style in that end of the game.

Locals Smothered Under Speed; Cavalry Takes The Series Lead

(BY MALT WAYSON)

Shanghai lost a game of ball, and lost without a chance to squeal, when yesterday they crossed their bats with Stotsenberg's best baseball steel. The reason might be said to be the speed ball pitching served to them, the rifle shot in Martin's wing, the fielding which shone like a gem. The locals could not hit the ball; they could not field with perfect score; they might have grabbed a run or two; they might have tied the count and more. Five spasms passed without a hit while Stotsenberg put over six. Three more went by before a run was scored by Shanghai's new-bought sticks. Then Wilhoit drove one out to right; it soared and flew and scaled the wall. Right fielder Duff went on its trail; he's on it yet, beyond recall. This afternoon they meet again these teams which each claim better class. Shanghai will show new pitching pace and, let us hope, a bit more jazz. Dennison and Hopkins are out for now; Maloney cannot play, it's true but a change or two in playing front and "Muggsey" Ross may pull them through. Today's game starts at half past four. The moon last night did not shine well, so be on time with member's card and the game will end by dinner's bell.

Batter Knocks Five Homers In One Game

Eveleth, Minn., July 16.—First baseman Daubert of the local team of the Mesaba Iron Range League is believed to have set a new record by hitting five home runs in as many times at bat, in a game with the Virginia team here yesterday. His last home run came in the tenth inning with two men on bases, and brought victory for Eveleth. The five circuit drives were made off Pitcher Dument, formerly of the Washington American League team.

POLICE FORFEIT TO ROWING CLUB AT WATER POLO

S.M.P. Team Short One Man; Scratch Game And Relay Race Form Card

The water polo match between the Rowing Club and the Police scheduled for last night did not take place, owing to the Police being short of a man. They thus forfeit the points for the match in the league card, and they will seldom have a better chance against the Rowing Club than they had last night, with Wallin, Berthet and J. D. Macdonald away.

A scratch game was played between teams made up of six on a side chosen from members of the two clubs, and a relay race was also got up. Otherwise, nothing took place, not even the usual Rowing Club mid-week handicap events.

The remaining games in the local water polo league are:

Aug.	11	Police v.	S.I.S.C.
,,	17	S.R.C. v.	S.I.S.C.
,,	23	S.I.S.C. v.	Police
Sept.	1	Police v.	S.R.C.

(The first-named in each case is to be the home team.)

TENNIS LEAGUE 3RD ROUND SET FOR TOMORROW

Schedule Finds Clubs All Evenly Matched; Good Play Promised

Tomorrow's third round of the City League Tennis tournament of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association will have six clubs almost evenly matched, insofar as League play performances show on the courts.

The two strongest clubs, the Portuguese Sporting Association and the Columbia Country Club are scheduled to meet on the former's courts; the Recs and the S.C.C., each tied in the standings to date, play on the Recs grounds, and the Japanese Club and the Country Club play on the latter's courts. The Cercle Sportif, which so far ranks third in the standings, draws a bye.

The tournament is being decided upon the number of doubles matches won by each club. The Portuguese have won nine of the ten matches they have played against the two clubs they have opposed, four matches to one over the Country Club two weeks ago and 5 matches to nil over the Cricket Club last week.

The standings to date follow:

CLUB	Won	Lost	Points
Portuguese	9	1	9
C. C. C.	6	4	6
Cercle Sportif	5	5	5
Country Club	4	6	4
Cricket Club	2	3	2
Japanese	2	3	2
Recs	2	3	2

The Recs and the Japanese each have played but once.

Blood Poisoning
Yet Another Grand Recovery
Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:
"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again I went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."
CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. BOXING BOUTS STAGED BY NAVY AT CHEFOO "Y"

Fistic Smoker Registers Hit With Chefoo Residents

Last night nearly the whole of Chefoo was present at the boxing entertainment which the Naval Y.M.C.A. organised. These attractions are being held each Friday night in the ground of the Y. M. C. A. and they are proving immensely popular. The place was packed with sailors from the ships and in addition a large number of residents and visitors, including ladies, were present.

The exhibition bouts—two of them—were good. The first was amusing, the second was business like, the two men going at each other in way that gave the impression they were engaged in a deadly conflict for championship honors. They hit hard and frequently and at the end were deservedly applauded for their clever exhibition.

The other bouts were likewise good but the main event of the program and obviously that which was the great draw, was the fight between Snow of the Huron and the boxer from the destroyer Edwards. Snow weighed 135 pounds and his opponent turned the scales at 144 pounds.

The preliminaries occupied a few minutes after the men had entered the ring and then they got to work. From the commencement they went hard at it. Snow made the pace fast and sent his doughty opponent through the ropes. But at the end of the first round it was difficult to say who was leading on points.

The second round was even faster than the first. Both men went at it as though they expected to finish the fight off in quick time. Snow had the better of the exchanges and his boxing was clever. In the third round he established a well earned lead and in the fourth and last round it appeared as if he might be able to deliver the coup de grace. But the gong sounded without this blow being delivered and to the great delight of the men from the Huron their representative was awarded the fight. The decision was unquestionably correct and the better boxer won.

Following the bouts there were exhibited pictures of Olympic games but the audience was thinned out when these were screened. It was obvious that the boxing was the main attraction of the program. The presence of the destroyers and the flagship is livening up things in Chefoo. Last night's program was exciting, Chefoo rarely getting opportunities of seeing fistic contests. The Naval Y. M. C. A. is doing a splendid work in the place and their efforts in looking after the welfare of the men ashore are being rewarded. Residents have nothing but praise for the able manner in which they are organising "hikes," etc., for the benefit of the sailors enjoying shore leave

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

With your permission I should like to address the following open letter to Captain Cy Wilhoit, of the Shanghai baseball team:

Friend Cy—

Having witnessed yesterday's game between the Shanghai and Ninth Cavalry teams and claiming to know something of the capabilities of the various Shanghai players, I desire to suggest that in my opinion, which, incidentally, coincides with that of other baseball fans with whom I have discussed the matter, you didn't have your best combination in the field yesterday.

Ladd, at third base, is not as well qualified for that position as Hendrickson, for the reason that he cannot throw. In the games with the various sailor teams Ladd "got by" at third mainly for the reason that the sailors could not run bases like the cavalrymen, who are streaks on the paths. Hendrickson has a fine whip and would cut off many runners that Ladd will lose at first. In fielding Hendrickson is fully as good as Ladd.

Ladd, of course, is the more experienced, and is as good a batter. His strength in batting, in fact, is such that the team cannot afford to be without his services. Very well then, why not play him at second in place of Crow. Crow is lamentably weak on ground balls, and is no better than Henrickson as a batter, if as good. Hendrickson, since he has been playing, has hit for an average of .301, whereas Crow's average for [illegible] season is only .244. True, Crow has participated in more games, but even so it cannot be said that he is any better with the stick than Hendrickson.

By removing Crow from the game and substituting Hendrickson you lose nothing in offensive strength, and you gain tremendously in fielding, and it is going to require fast fielding and good throwing to stop these cavalrymen, especially with our weakened pitching staff.

With weak pitching it is necessary to have the best defense possible. Better, even, to strengthen the defense at the cost of batting.

Otherwise the soldiers will run wild.

Sperry will solve the right field problem when he gets into the game. As a utility man, how about Wolfe? He is fairly sure on fielding, has a good arm, and is hard to pitch to. As a lead off man he probably would get on oftener than any other man.

This is an important series and it is necessary to lay all sentimental considerations aside, and to put the best team possible in the field. Particularly the best fielding team.

Yours for victory,

FAN.

Shanghai, August 10.

Cavalrymen Gallop Away With Game

throwing a foot wide to the left. Jordan singled to right advancing Lumkins. Jordan started a steal. Roeser threw beautifully to Crow, who relayed it back to the plate catching Savage at the plate, leaving Jordan safe on second. Martin went out Crow to Wilhoit. One hit, No runs.

Shanghai.—Bristow and Wilhoit fanned on Thompson's speed ball, and Bills drove a little grounder to Lumkins for an easy out at first. No hits, no runs.

SECOND INNING

Cavalry.—Evans beat out a hit to Bills for a single. He stole second. Duff and Barnett flied out to Pruitt and Ladd. Pearson singled to right and Evans scored the first run. Pearson stole, but Thompson went out at first by Merrill unassisted. Two hits, one run.

Shanghai.—Roeser was thrown out Thompson to first. Smith, ditto, Pearson to first, after which Ladd struck out. No hits, no runs.

THIRD INNING

Cavalry.—Merrill threw Lumkins out at first. Savage hit safely through Merrill to center. He stole second for his second steal. Jordan's drive to right brought him home, and Jordan took second on Smith's high and wide throw-in to the plate. Martin flied out to Pruitt and Evans went out Crow to first. Two hits, one run.

Shanghai.—Merrill took first, hit by pitched ball. He advanced to second when Barnett clear muffed Thompson's low throw to catch Merrill napping. It was the Cavalry's only error. Crow popped a fly to Barnett. Pruitt struck out, and Bristow was thrown out by Evans. No hits, no runs.

FOURTH INNING

Cavalry.—Duff went out at first by Wilhoit unassisted. Barnett flied to Ladd. Pearson drove one through Merrill into centerfield, but was caught attempting a steal. One hit, no runs.

Shanghai.—Wilhoit was easy Pearson to Barnett. Bills foul flied out to Duff in right field for a pretty catch close up to the crowd lines. Roeser made the third out, Pearson to first. No hits, no runs.

FIFTH INNING

Cavalry.—Thompson walked but was caught attempting a steal, Roeser to Bills. Roeser was pegging nicely. Lumkins was out at first Wilhoit to Merrill on a close decision, and Savage flied out to Bristow in short right center. No hits, no runs.

Shanghai.—Smith lined one out towards left field. It looked like a bingle, but Lumkins pulled it down. Ladd walked, but never got any further. Merrill and Crow each flied out to Savage. No hits, no runs.

SIXTH INNING

Cavalry—Jordan fanned, for Merrill's first strikeout. The third strike was a spitter. Martin raised one over Bristow's head in right field for a home run. Bristow was playing close in toward center, and had some chasing to do. Evans got on when Crow let his grounder through his legs for Shanghai's second error. Duff singled through to center, but Smith booted it, and Evans went to third and Duff to second. They both scored on Barnett's close double to center. The next two men, Pearson and Thompson were easy outs, Crow and Bills to first. Three hits, Three runs.

Shanghai — Pruitt singled through short for Shanghai's first hit of the game. Bristow fanned, Wilhoit popped one to Evans. Bills drove a fast one down the first base line for a life, advancing Pruitt to second, where he died when Roeser flied out to Jordan in center. Two hits, no runs.

SEVENTH INNING

Cavalry—Lumkins popped a little fly to Merrill. Savage was out for attempting to bunt on the third strike. Jordan fanned. No hits, no runs.

Shanghai—Smith struck out. Ladd flied to Lumkins in short left. Merrill drove a safe hit through Thompson. Crow flied to Evans. One hit, no runs.

EIGHTH INNING

Cavalry—Martin flied to Pruitt. Evans was out Crow to first. Duff fanned. No hits, no runs.

Shanghai—Pruitt struck out. Bristow was thrown out by Evans. Wilhoit drove the ball into the ditch far out behind right field for a home run. Bills walked, and stole second, the only steal attempted against Martin's wonderful peg. He made it sliding, with the throw a little low and too wide to nab him. Roeser fanned. One hit, one run.

NINTH INNING

Cavalry—Barnett struck out. Pearson flied out to Merrill. Thompson drove a sharp one through first and second but Crow speared it for the third out. No hits, no runs.

Shanghai—Smith opened with a drive over Pearson's head. The latter hunched himself, leaped into the air and pulled it down for the rill fouled out to Evans. No hits, first out. Ladd struck out. Merno runs.

Comments On The Game

Roeser caught a beautiful game for Shanghai. Nothing got past him and he cut down two wouldbe pilferers at second. In addition to his fine backstop work the Shanghai catcher slammed a drive to left center, with two on, that would have tied up the score if it had got by. The visiting centerfielder nailed it only by a desperate run.

The coolies are still looking for the ball that Cy Wilhoit slammed for a homer. It sped past the cavalry right fielder, hopped over a fringe of spectators, jumped a ditch and was last seen rolling around the race track. Tough luck for Cy that some of his mates were not on the paths when he poked that one.

The fans went into raptures over the way Martin, the soldier catcher, whipped them to second when the visitors were warming up. Standing flat footed, this boy shot the old pill to the bases like a bullet, reminding one of the way Johnny Kling and Jimmy Archer used to peg for the Chicago Cubs. At that, Martin lost his man at second the only time he was called upon to throw there during the game. His throw that time was a trifle low.

The first man up for the cavalrymen hit a grounder to Merrill, who deflected it toward Crow. The second basemen got the ball to first in time to get the ump's decision, but from the press stand it looked like the runner was safe by five feet. The visitor's didn't get any the best of it from the umps, but they didn't kick much. Apparently they were under orders to play ball and to lay off the oratory.

Merrill pitched a fine game and deserved better luck. Two of the runs that were scored against him came in after Brad Crow and Smith booted easy ones which developed into runs on a hit to short center which the center fielder could have killed with even a moderately good throw. But his rainbow heave was too high and considerably off the line. Merrill had his cross fire working well and got better as the game progressed.

The Shanghai boys didn't seem to bat with any confidence. Thompson wasn't using very much but a straight ball, and yet, time and again, the Shanghai batters would stand there and let them cut the plate without even a swing. But now that the first game is out of the way the team probably will step up there with more confidence. Cy showed them yesterday that it is possible to hit these fellows. Confidence is the main thing and our boys will have more of it in the remaining games than they had yesterday.

The deadheads who stood along the left field foul line saw a pretty good ball game without the outlay of a copper. Wonder how those birds figure the Shanghai club is going to meet the heavy expense of bringing the cavalrymen here for the series.

Five o'clock is too late to start the games. It was too dark to see the ball at the finish of yesterday's scrap. Four thirty will be "more better" as a starting time.

Capt. Wilhoit certainly put up a sparkling game at first. In addition to scooping up numerous wild throws he was there with the old pep and confidence. If we only could have had old reliable "Mal" in the game, instead of on the coaching lines, there might have been a different story to tell.

Pruitt made three nice grabs in left, one of them a terrific drive from Martin's bat. To get that one the Shanghai left fielder tore back almost to the golf club house and there didn't seem to be one chance in a million that he would get it when he started back for it. But he speared it in big league fashion, much to the disgust of the cavalry backstopper.

Bills played his usual classy game at short, although he didn't get many chances. Lumkins, the soldier shortstop, robbed Smith of a sure hit by spearing his line drive over second in the fifth. It was a neat bit of work. Smith was robbed of another hit in the ninth by Pearson, the visiting second sacker, who leaped high in the air to pull down a screamer that was ticketed for two bases at least. Crow, for our side, evened accounts somewhat by spearing a liner from Thompson's bat in the ninth. The third sackers didn't have much to do in the fielding line.

The ninth cavalry team is comprised of a fine, gentlemanly lot of athletes who play finished baseball, and who, in addition, conduct themselves in an exemplary manner on and off the field. They take the game seriously and strive earnestly at all times to give their best efforts. All these traits were greatly appreciated by the Shanghai fans, who were very liberal in applauding the soldiers yesterday, both in practice and during the game.

Hopkins caught one fly and then had to leave the game, due to a reappearance of the trouble to his knee that has kept him out of the game most of the summer. Bristow took his place in right field.

NAMES BABY "DEMPSEY"

Father's Choice Of Cognomen Leads To Fist Fight With Brother

Pittsburgh, July 3.—John Dempsey Mahoney, the name conferred last night upon a newborn son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahoney, of Race Street, following receipt of news that the American champion had knocked out the French challenger, caused a row, with the result that Mahoney and his brother Gerald, a supporter of Carpentier, landed in the police station, charged with disorderly conduct.

Mahoney the younger arrived Saturday morning, and as the father was an enthusiastic rooter for the Irish fighter, it was decided to hold off naming the baby till after the result of the Jersey City fight should be known.

"It's John Dempsey Mahoney," the exultant father told Mrs. Mahoney after getting the word; "Dempsey wins in the fourth round." But when Gerald dropped in to see his new nephew last evening his cup of bitterness overflowed, hot words passed, and the police say that blows were struck.

At the hearing before Magistrate Wallace Borland today both the men were contrite.

"Suppose you name the baby Wallace Borland Mahoney," suggested the magistrate hopefully.

"No, Judge," responded John, his lips tightening a bit. "It stays John Dempsey Mahoney."

"Sure it does," chimed in Gerald.

"Gerald," said the magistrate, "you will buy the baby its first pair of shoes. John, you're discharged."

Communism Now Central Issue Of Labor World

BY NICOLAI LENIN

Moscow, July 1.—Our most difficult problem today is the transition from war to peace. For three years we have been making every attempt to accomplish this, and because of international capitalism demanding our military subjugation we have been unable to attain it.

Three years ago, in April, 1918, there was a short period when we assumed that the civil war was practically over. We soon found out that it was only beginning.

A year ago we based all our plans upon a similar mistake in calculation, hoping that the enormous concessions we were making to Europe would surely result in peace. But that very week, April, 1920, the Polish middle class, inspired and encouraged by other European capitalists, interpreted our desire for peace as a sign of weakness and launched against us the famous offensive.

For that reason we were not able to proceed at that time with our labors of peace. We were forced to gather our entire energy upon the war with Poland, and before we had scarcely ended that war we had to make war with Wrangel.

SPENT ENERGY FIGHTING

But now that we have swept our enemies from the territories of the Soviet Russian Republic we can resume our labors of peace. But this process we find difficult. The demobilisation of our armies, which we had to send to their homes under the greatest transportation difficulties, have created problems not fully pondered in advance. This explains many of our social maladies.

For several years the energy of the nation has been concentrated upon fighting. Everything has been sacrificed to that. Not until now, when the war is over, have we had time to survey the poverty and ruin which have befallen us. Only now can we stop to think of binding up our wounds.

Civil war imposed upon us one line of action—to subordinate everything to victory. It was only by sticking inflexibly to this rule, and concentrating all our energy on a single purpose, that the Red forces were able to defeat Kolchak, Yudenich and their successors.

RECOUNTS MISTAKES

Underestimating, as we did, the problems of demobilisation, we have as a consequence committed many mistakes.

Let me recite briefly the errors we have made in three fields—in the conduct of the Polish war, the distribution of fuel and the matter of provisions.

(1). We made a mistake in advancing too rapidly against Warsaw. I will not stop to examine whether this was a strategic or a political error. In any case, it was a blunder, due to our overestimating our strength.

(2). Coming now to the food question, we find ourselves convicted of equal errors. During the past season we did better with our grain requisitions than any year preceding.

(3). We must confess further that we have had no scientific basis for calculating our rations.

By studying and comparing the statistics of different years, certain scientific laws of supply and demand are worked out. We had no such basis upon which to figure, and when we found ourselves with supplies of food to give our workmen, we did not know where to set the limit. It is clear that we should have increased the rations more moderately and have kept a reserve for the rainy day we knew was coming.

CONDITION IS IMPROVED

Much the same thing happened in the case of fuel. We come right back to the fundamental weakness in our economic organisation. The transition from war to peace and the economic reconstruction which we discussed at our last party conference, and to which we have devoted ourselves mainly during the past year, can be successfully carried out only by a rationing system judiciously administered.

Undoubtedly we are in a better position than a year ago. Then we had neither coal nor petroleum. Our military victories have given us both these essential things. But knowing this, we have consumed our supplies so wastefully that we find our reserves exhausted.

Now, let me repeat. All of these errors are associated with our rapid transition from war to peace. That is a crisis which is proving to be much more difficult than we imagined. It really calls for longer preparation and better guarantees of peace than we now have.

Furthermore, the present crisis has been aggravated by a short harvest. I have just said our food supply department has gathered a much larger quantity of provisions than the year before; but none the less, one of the principal causes of the present crisis is a bad crop season. That has resulted in a considerable diminution of forage which, in turn, has caused a decrease in live stock.

Our requisitions have been carried out in districts where the grain reserves are not large. The amplest supplies are in the frontier republics of Siberia and the Caucasus, where Soviet authority is least firmly established, where our administrative machinery is least efficient and where the difficulties of transportation are greatest. Consequently, the larger supplies actually collected have been gathered in districts where the crop was poorest; and this again has aggravated the agricultural crisis.

SEIZED FROM PEASANTS

So we miscalculated; though, in fact, we were so hard pressed that we had little choice.

A country that has just gone through a disastrous foreign war, followed by a civil war, has no other recourse but to confiscate the supplies of the peasants—even without compensation.

We told the peasants: "Surely you will give your grain to the Workers' and Peasants' Government, for you have no other defender against your old landlords."

We could not do otherwise under war conditions. But this practice, on account of the prolongation of the war, has so disorganised our farming industries that the poor crop, the reduction in the cultivated area, the deterioration of our agricultural machinery, the exhaustion of our soil might well lead us to expect a scarcity. We gathered more grain than we anticipated in spite of that. But the agricultural crisis became more acute.

Having thus reviewed briefly our experience during the past year, let me examine the problems now before us.

Assistance is coming from Western Europe. It is not coming as fast as we should like, but it is coming surely.

The Communist International at the time of its first meeting was "only a proclamation;" now it exists, with an organised political party in every country, and not merely a wing of a party.

LABOR ISSUE OF THE WORLD

Communism has become the central issue of the labor movement of the world. It holds that position in Germany, France and Italy, where it is the heart not only of the labor movement but also of the whole political life of the country.

Last Autumn you could not open a German or French newspaper without reading something about Moscow, or the Bolsheviki, or the twenty-one conditions for adhesion to the Third International. That is an undoubted gain for us.

International revolution is spreading step by step with the economic crisis in Europe.

But it would be folly to suggest that we may expect aid from that part of the world immediately.

We have learned to understand in the course of the last three years that we cannot set a definite date for the proletarian revolution.

For this reason, we are planning our campaign so as to recognise the survival of classes in our own country and their existence in other countries, in order that we may preserve our dictatorship for a prolonged period and work ourselves out of the misery and constant crises from which we are sensible and rational policy.

BOLSHEVIK FOREIGN POLICY

Since the Ninth Party Congress we have been absorbed in an effort to substitute peaceable commercial relations with the capitalist countries in place of the existing state of war. We have taken formal diplomatic measures with that object in view, and have successfully measured our diplomacy against that of our opponents.

When, for example, the representatives of the United States and the League of Nations proposed to us to cease under certain conditions our operations against Denikin and Kolchack, they thought they were putting us in a hole. But they had miscalculated and were obliged to withdraw their proposal. That was a fact recorded in the press and in the diplomatic literature of the whole world.

But we could not rest content with more diplomatic victory. We need real commercial relations. Only last year did the situation mature sufficiently to take up this question. We began to negotiate a trade-treaty with England, but the Polish war delayed us a long time. The British bourgeoisie wished to resume trade with us and was ready to sign a treaty, but the Court opposed and protested it. The Polish war postponed this treaty.

The matter of concessions comes in here. They are necessary because we cannot restore our ruined industries alone, without technical assistance and equipment from abroad. It is not enough simply to import machinery. We can grant concessions so as to insure the employment of the most modern equipment and thereby increase production.

Anyone who examines our situation calmly will agree that we cannot better it otherwise. Negotiations are already under way with certain of the largest trusts.

Naturally, these trusts are not going to serve us for nothing. They will demand an immense profit. The capitalism of today is not like capitalism in normal times. It makes 100 percent on its investments, because it is able to monopolise the business of the whole world. Naturally, under these conditions, we must pay dearer for what we get, but at any cost we must perfect our mechanical equipment.

The June Bride's Silver

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

SILVER and linen—of all their household furnishings these are surely the two things which women love most! And silver is certainly the most fitting gift for the June bride. Other presents may be beautiful, but there is something about silver which has a distinction and a sense of lasting value which no gift of china or textiles possesses.

What piece, what pattern shall be selected? That is the question.

The higher our civilization the more complicated becomes the array of eating implements. While the uncultured do admirably with a single spoon and their fingers or, at best, a coarse knife and fork, it requires a varied and elaborate assortment of table utensils to eat the modern meal in a refined manner. Of course, one must avoid the dangerous tendency to have too many "fussy" and almost useless pieces, which only complicate the service and make unnecessary work to keep them clean.

To-day good silver is practically within the reach of every purse. The manufacturers of plated ware have so developed their product that even at a low cost one is able to find a wide selection of attractive patterns that are guaranteed to give many years of service. Plated ware also removes much of the temptation to theft which the presence of solid silver always involves. Further, the best plated ware has even better wearing qualities than the solid kind, for the metal is not so soft and therefore less likely to become dented.

This does not mean that solid silver is not desirable—only that for the moderate purse and all practical uses sets of plated ware in a choice pattern are just as beautiful and lasting.

The main point is to choose that pattern which is most tasteful, most restful and not too difficult to keep clean. Ornate, elaborate designs, with scroll work and much carving or cutting, are, fortunately, in less good taste, for it takes a great deal of time and labor to keep them clean. Nowadays the best taste leans to the plainer patterns with less cutting. The long lines and plain designs, such as the "Colonial" and the "Georgian" and some borrowed from the "Empire" of the French, all have this beautiful simplicity and possess great distinction without elaboration.

Although the typical silver set has twelve pieces, the half set, with eight pieces of each kind, is sufficient for the small family. Indeed, it is better to choose six each of more kinds than to have a dozen pieces of only one or two. If the person conducts an informal household, the knife and fork called a "supper" are much better for all meals than the strictly "dinner" knives and forks, which are much longer.

The soup spoon is a piece which in many silver sets is too small and with too short a handle to be convenient for use, particularly by men. Select a model which has a sensible handle—which can be firmly grasped and which is not too much like a toy.

The salad fork is another piece which needs care in selection. It is also often made with a short, stumpy handle and somewhat clumsy tines. In selecting a gift one must be careful to notice these details and not buy pieces which are wrong in length or of a poor shape.

The "dessert" spoon is not so widely used here as it is abroad, where all desserts of a pudding nature are eaten with it. It is, however, the most convenient size and shape for soup for children, and for serving if there are no other serving spoons. It is also preferable to the usual standard teaspoon in many instances. It is unfortunately not included in many sets, although it has a far wider use than a very large tablespoon.

When we come to the pieces of small silver, like the oyster fork, butter spreader, fruit knife, etc., it is optional whether or not they be included in the chest of silver. It is best to select odd pieces, like a berry ladle, a pie server or a sugar shell, if a gift of only one piece is to be made. If the recipient knows the name of the jeweler it will be an easy matter to exchange for any other article that may be preferred.

Possibly the one most useful single piece of silver that any hostess can own is the pie or cold meat server, as it is sometimes called. This is a flat, trowel-shaped blade, not very sharp on the edges, but just sufficiently keen to gracefully slice a pie, meat-loaf or other not too solid food. It is excellent for serving gelatine and other desserts.

Sometimes the pie knife is made with one sharp cutting edge and the other edge slightly scooped, so as to hold the food in shape while it is being lifted from one dish to another. It is mounted on a conveniently long handle.

Another useful piece is a jelly server, which is like the pie server, only smaller. This also has a sharp cutting blade and a raised edge on the other side, which makes it just the thing for lifting a serving of jelly.

Famous Beauties of Stage and Screen—ETHEL HALLOR.
(Photograph by IRA D. SCHWARZ.)

In this country it is not considered fashionable to use steel knives with bone handles. But the author speaks strongly in favor of such knives for all dinner use. The usual dinner knife has not a blade sufficiently sharp to cut meat without considerable effort.

A set of steel dinner knives with bone or horn handles makes an unusual and very practical gift. Fruit knives have silver blades, but are also mounted in bone handles.

When we come to the various accessories for tea tables and fancy serving there is a wide selection. There are the bonbon spoons, sugar tongs, salt and peppers and various small baskets and dishes for holding salted nuts, olives, etc.—all of which come in silver. A complete set, with tray, sugar, creamer and pot in silver, lined with washed gilt, is a gift most brides will prize. A set of silver candlesticks is another small but welcome gift.

No matter how beautiful your silver pieces may be, don't forget that if placed unsymmetrically or in the wrong order or location the table will not present the attractive, dignified appearance which correct appointment demands.

Sandwiches for Sunday's Supper

By Mary Lee Swann,
The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Peanut Sandwiches.

POUND freshly roasted peanuts to a smooth paste. Season with a pinch of salt and moisten with a little thick cream. Spread as usual.

Raisin and Peanut Butter Sandwiches.

PASS ½ cup raisins through meat chopper. Add ½ cup peanut butter and rub to a smooth paste. Spread between slices of whole wheat bread.

Favorite Tea Room Sandwiches.

CUT stale nut bread very thin. Spread with cream cheese and butter beaten together, and put together with pineapple or orange marmalade.

Brown Bread Sandwiches.

SPREAD and cut bread as for other sandwiches. Put between layers of finely chopped peanuts seasoned with salt, or grated cheese mixed with chopped English walnut meats seasoned with salt.

Date and Ginger Sandwiches.

FINELY chop ½ cup dates, ½ cup English walnut meats and ¼ cup preserved ginger. Add a little ginger syrup to moisten and season with a few drops of lemon juice. Spread between slices of whole wheat bread.

Anchovy Sandwiches.

RUB the yolks of hard-boiled eggs to a paste. Moisten with soft butter and season with anchovy essence. Spread mixture between thin slices of buttered bread. If you wish to prevent the bread from crumbling cream the butter and spread the end of the loaf before each slice is cut.

Delicious Chicken Sandwiches.

FINELY chop and pound to a paste 4 ounces of cold tongue. Add 6 ounces of chopped and pounded cold breast of chicken. Season with ½ teaspoon celery salt and a dash of cayenne and moisten with 4 tablespoons chicken salad dressing. Spread on thin slices of bread from which the crust has been removed. Roll securely and tie or skewer in place. Just before serving the skewers or cords may be removed.

Corned Beef Sandwiches.

CHOP cold corned beef very fine, using a little of the fat of the meat. Season with a little French mustard and spread between thin slices of whole wheat bread.

Egg and Olive Sandwiches.

FINELY chop 15 stuffed olives. Press 3 hard-cooked eggs through sieve or potato ricer and add to the olives. Moisten with a little mayonnaise and spread as usual.

Russian Sandwiches.

SPREAD saltines with thin slices of Neufchatel cheese and cover with finely chopped olives moistened with mayonnaise dressing. Place a saltine over each and press together.

Lobster Sandwiches.

REMOVE lobster meat from shell and chop. Season with salt, cayenne, prepared mustard and lemon juice, or moisten with any salad dressing. Spread mixture on a crisp lettuce leaf and place between slices of buttered toast.

Sardine Sandwiches.

DRAIN sardines well, remove skin and bones, and rub into a smooth paste. Prepare an equal amount of sifted egg yolk which has been rubbed to a smooth paste. Mix sardine and egg paste and season with a few drops of lemon juice and tobasco sauce. Spread as usual.

Savory Tongue Sandwiches.

PASS 1 part cold ham and 2 parts cold tongue through meat chopper. Pound very fine and season with a little English mustard and paprika. Spread a little creamed butter on one piece of bread and the meat on the other. Press slices of bread together.

Nut and Fig Sandwiches.

REMOVE stems and finely chop figs. Add a small quantity of water, cook in double boiler until a paste is formed, then add a few drops of lemon juice. Cool mixture and spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle with finely chopped peanuts and cover with pieces of buttered bread.

Cutting Out a Dress

IF the home dressmaker is to have success with her new dress she needs to bear in mind several important rules regarding the cutting of the material.

Most materials with a nap must be cut so as to have the nap run down. Ordinary velvet and corduroy are, however, generally exceptions to this rule, says Professor Jane Pales, of Columbia University in her book on "Dressmaking."

If the richest effect possible is desired, the velvet can be made with the pile running up. The objection to this is that as the pile is standing up it catches the dust easily and is difficult to keep clean. Panne velvet should have its pile running down.

Many materials which have no nap, such as henrietta and cashmere, show a difference in color if the pattern is not laid on so that the material all runs in one direction. A test for difference in color can easily be made by putting the two cut ends of the material together and holding them up. In that way the top and the bottom of the material are side by side and it is easy to determine whether they catch and reflect the light in the same way.

For the inexperienced it is always a good plan to cut all patterns first in inexpensive material, such as cambric, unbleached muslin or calico, and have them tested and fitted.

In cutting, the two corresponding pieces or sides of any garment should be cut together; that is, two fronts of a shirt-waist or two sleeves, for otherwise two pieces may be cut for the same side.

There are occasional exceptions to this, as, for instance, when the amount of material is limited and by cutting the pieces singly they may be more economically placed and material saved, or when the material has a decided up and down, because of nap or pattern, and must be cut separately to look and wear well.

It is, in general, more economical if, in placing a pattern for cutting, its wider sections are placed at the cut end of the material. For instance, with a shirtwaist pattern the fronts are usually placed first, with the bottom of the pattern at the cut end of the material.

This gives opportunity, if there is no up and down, to slide the second piece of the pattern by the first and so save material. A similar plan may be adopted satisfactorily in cutting skirts.

In cutting a garment from any pattern the garment should be carefully marked, wherever necessary, with a tracing-wheel, tailor's chalk or tailor basting. The lines to be marked depend, of course, on the kind of garment.

Seam-lines should always be indicated as a guide in basting for fitting, and such lines as the neck, armseye, waist, hip and hem, which are needed not only for a guide in basting, but for the actual making.

The tracing wheel will mark two thicknesses at once and is, for that reason, especially convenient. It cannot, however, be used on all materials. For instance, on soft fabrics and those with fancy surfaces the markings will not show.

Tailor's chalk marks only one surface at a time, and there is always danger of its being erased during the basting, etc.

Tailor basting is in general a most satisfactory method of marking. It may be done through two thicknesses; it stays in place as long as it is needed and does not injure any material. It requires, however, more time than either of the two other ways.

When the cutting is done the seamlines are frequently marked with tailor's chalk, which serves as a guide for the tailor basting. In making this basting a long double thread is needed.

The sewing is done through both thicknesses, using first a short, then a long stitch. The thread is not pulled through tightly, as in the regular basting, but each long stitch is loose enough to form a loop.

After the basting is finished the two pieces of material are carefully pulled apart as far as the loops will allow, and the stitches which hold them together are cut between the two layers of material. If this is correctly done there will be stitches enough on each piece of material to indicate the line perfectly.

What Is the Secret of Long Life?

Answered in Various Ways by Men Whose Opinions Are Worth Having

THE only way to avoid arteriosclerosis—to reach old age, in other words—is to practice moderation in all things.—DR. WILLIAM S. WALSH, author of "Yours for Sleep."

IN order to give the laborer the chance of longer life we must shorten his working hours and give him more chance to get into the open air and have some recreation.—DR. WOODS HUTCHINSON, well known physician and writer.

WILL power is a wellspring of vitality that checks for a time even lethal changes in the body, and undoubtedly is one of the most important factors for the prolongation of life.—PROFESSOR JAMES J. WALSH, of Fordham University.

STATISTICAL investigation shows that the women who produce the greatest number of children before they are forty-five are the ones who live the greatest number of years after they are forty-five, and the women who produce the least number of children before that age are the ones who live the least number of years after it. In other words, the continuous and regular production of children during the child-bearing age tends to prolong life after that age is past.—DR. CASPAR L. REDFIELD, well known Chicago physician.

LIGHT diet, sobriety, considerable muscular exercise and continence are the means by which longer life may be attained.—PROFESSOR WIDAL, famous French scientist.

IF we were really skilled in eating we could lengthen our lives by many years through the proper selection of our food. We could add fifteen years to a child's life if it were properly fed during childhood.—DR. HARVEY W. WILEY, former chief chemist, United States Department of Agriculture.

THE secret of longer life for all of us lies in co-ordinating all the health agencies of the country and putting them under centralized control so that there may be proper team work.—RUPERT BLUE, former surgeon-general, United States Public Health Service.

TO live the sort of life you like to; to use alcohol, tobacco and all the other good things of life in moderation; to make many friends of either sex and have them frequently to dinner; to laugh a great deal; to take a two-mile walk every day; to sleep as much as you wish, but not to be afraid of night work for spurts; to stay on the job, but not to get tired if you can help it.—HENRY HOLT, octogenarian publisher.

TWO essentials are necessary to the attainment of healthy old age—an inherited proclivity to longevity, and healthy conditions of life.—SIR WILLIAM OSLER, famous physician.

THE grouchy man will not live as long as the happy one. Poise and an even temper, the elimination of worry by the substitution of cheerful thoughts, are established aids to health and longevity.—DR WOODS HUTCHINSON, well known physician and writer.

THE average length of human life can be increased by improving the conditions under which ten million of our people now live; by abolishing the slums which breed the criminals, the insane and the unfit and are the plague spots of our national life.—GEORGE H. TINKHAM, Representative from Massachusetts.

IF we can make child life the sort of life it ought to be; if we can protect our food supply; if we can guard our borders against foreign infection; if we can keep our streets and public places and homes clean, there is no reason why we should not look forward to the time when the average length of life will be eighty years.—DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, Health Commissioner of New York.

Love at First Sight

IT rarely happens that two flashes from the eyes of a man and of a woman who meet for the first time should kindle one fire only, says Professor Paolo Mantegazza in "The Book of Love." This is the ideal of the most ardent sympathies, the most fortunate combination in the great, hazardous game of life.

To meet suddenly, to see, to admire, to desire each other at once and to embrace with such a look as if it came from above; to feel inundated by a gaze, equally warm and penetrating; to blush together and to feel all at once that two hearts beat louder and mutely make this sweet confession: "I love you, and you are mine!"—all this is a joy too rare, too beautiful, one which few mortals have known and few will know.

It happens more frequently that nascent sympathies proceed unequally, so that the one has already carried a man to the highest summits, while the other hardly begins to stir; the one already throbs, the other only faintly vibrates.

Even when two loves are called to high and fortunate destinies, even when they will soon spread their robust wings together in the space of bliss, a task is reserved to woman in the vicissitudes of love, so different from ours that she cannot feel with us the same sudden and violent emotions.

Man says everything with a look; unhesitatingly and proudly he acknowledges his defeats. Woman, even under the spell of the most ardent sympathy, lowers her eyelids, refuses the too intense light and protects her heart with all the refrigeratives and sedatives at her command.

Man has already said to woman a hundred times with the flash of his eyes: "I love you!" The woman, trembling, hardly dares to say: "Perhaps I will love you!"

And away run those two happy beings, fleeing from each other, until the sympathy of the one equals that of the other, until the supreme languor of a long battle is smothered in two notes which vibrate together with the sweetest harmony, while they say to each other, with a sigh, "I love you!" and to Nature repeat with another sigh, "Thanks!"

Household Hints

When Making Soup.

IF there is not enough soup to go around add to the stock a little beef extract and sufficient hot water to make the quantity needed.

Saving Ice.

NEVER put hot or warm food into the refrigerator, for it raises the temperature and consequently the ice bill.

Buttering the Scissors.

THE work of cutting up dates, figs or raisins can be better and more quickly done if you first butter the blades of the scissors.

Creamed Carrots.

WHEN you cream carrots add a half-teaspoon of onion juice and a dash of nutmeg to the white sauce and see how much it improves the flavor.

To Prevent Curdling.

TO make mayonnaise that will not curdle mix the salt, mustard or any other dry ingredients with the egg yolk, and then pour over it one teaspoon of boiling water.

Whole Nut Meats.

TO make nut meats come out whole pour boiling water on them and let them stand in this for fifteen or twenty minutes before cracking.

Kitchen Shears.

A PAIR of shears should be kept in every kitchen for use in preparing lettuce and other vegetables, in cutting the scorched part from a cake and in carving chicken and other tender meats.

Keeping Sliced Bacon.

HAVE your butcher slice the bacon thin, pack it in glass jars and seal tight. In this shape it will keep nicely until all used up. It is always ready for use, and there is no waste caused by mould forming on the outside.

Cleaning Pans.

AN enamel or granite-ware pan to which burned food has stuck can be made bright as new by soaking for a few hours in ashes and water and then baking in a hot oven until the burned places drop away.

Would Bring Living Buddha's Son To Japan To Aid Exploitation

Mongolian Society Is Organised In Tokio That Chances On Mines And Pasture Lands May Be Improved

Tokio, Aug. 2.—That Japan may better her chances for the exploitation of the great desert of North China, Tokio politicians are at present fostering a plan to bring the son of the Living Buddha to Japan. Here, in the friendly embraces of a great neighbor, the son of the powerful factor in Mongolian affairs may be taught regarding the history and achievements of Japan, and in this way the road to better understanding between Japan and the neighboring country of undeveloped wealth may be the better prepared.

Coal and salt mines and one of the best pasture lands in the world are said to be ready for use in the country which until recently has been to some extent under the rule of Baron Ungern and the Living Buddha. During the attack of Ungern on the city of Urga it was stated that men in Japanese uniforms were among those opposing the Chinese. Reports now indicate that Ungern has met reverses, and consequently any Japanese officers who were with him in the opposition of the city are among the defeated.

Now the Kokuminto party and a group of experts on Chinese affairs, so the Tokio press says, have taken up the work of making possible the exploitation of Mongolia. Mr. Takeshi Inukai, president of the Kokuminto, Mr. Mitsuru Toyama, Mr. Hiroyuki Tanaka and other experts on Chinese affairs have joined in organising the Mongolian Society, and the opening meeting of this organisation was held at the Kaika Restaurant in Kanda Friday afternoon. At the first session of the organisation it was decided to send Mr. Tanaka, named as president of the Mongolian Society, to Mongolia where he will attempt to persuade the Living Buddha's son to come to Tokio.

Mr. Tanaka is quoted in the Japanese press as saying that the immense desert of Mongolia, with its wealth of undeveloped coal and salt mines, and its great stretches of pasture lands has as yet been untouched. It is for the purpose of introducing this vast territory of North China to the world, and of acquainting the inhabitants of Mongolia with the conditions of the world nations, Mr. Tanaka says, that the Mongolia Society of Tokio was organised.

French Mother Accuses Mayor Of Drowning Her Wounded Son

Atocious War Crime Charged Against Official Whu Feared Germans Would Destroy His Village

Paris, (by mail).—Accusations of an atrocious crime during the retreat from Charleroi September 3, 1914, are made against the Mayor of a French village on the marne by the mother of a private of the Fourth Zouaves, Mme. Letermelier. According to an interview with the mother obtained by the noted war correspondent, Gaston Richard, and printed in the Petit Parisien, the mother charges that Mayor Monnerat, of Reuilly-Sauvigny, fearing German terrorism, which he knew already had murdered men, women and children, and razed towns for lesser acts, decided he could not keep her wounded son, Lotis Letermelier, in the village until the invaders' arrival, so aided by two men, he drowned his compatriot under most cruel circumstances.

MOTHER MAKES INVESTIGATION

After receiving letters from sympathetic villagers, Mme. Letermelier came from Tunis, made inquiries personally and then put the case in the hands of the authorities. Shortly afterward, two months ago, the Mayor of Reuilly-Sauvigny, it is alleged, committed suicide. But the mother asserts his two accomplics are living and that others are culpable. She appeals through Gaston Richard to all mothers of France that justice shall be accomplished.

While the mother's story as told by Gaston Richard appears to have considerable evidence to support it, it is denied in other reports from Reuilly-Sauvigny which declare her son died from exhaustion and that the Mayor died of cancer, not suicide.

The mother's story is that Letermelier was too badly wounded to be transported in the hurried retreat and was confined to the care of a widow named Monnerat by his officer. He was undressed, put in a good bed and properly nursed. His papers were burned and his uniform hidden as the Germans arrived.

The same evening, it is alleged, the Mayor, who was a relative of the widow, came with two others, exclaiming that the presence of the "dirty Zouave" was going to cause the village to be destroyed.

THE MOTHER'S STORY

Mme. Letermelier continues: "Three men seized my son, who had a high feevr, and tried to stuff him in a barrel, but he was strong enough to resist and was too large for the barrel. Then they pulled off his shirt and put his naked in a sack, then on a handcart, his head protruding from thee sack. The ytook him to the fire-engine house. There, complaining among themselves about the expense, they gave him food and drink and later dragged him in the sack 500 yards to the Marne, took him out of the sack and threw him into the water.

"When he cried for help they hit him on the head with a club and on his hands when he tried to catch hold of tree branches." It was thus they were seen by Mme. Cheruy, who called them bandits, so she wrote to the mother, and the Mayor replied with insults, saying if he had a gun he would shoot her.

"When the body was fished out of the Marne the next day the Mayor pretended it was that of an artilleryman who was drowned while swimming," but the mother says the exhumed skeleton bears signs of a youthful collar-bone fracture of her son, and few of the villagers were deceived at the time.

One of the first letters the mother received said: "An inquest was opened and the warrants are in a safe place awaiting the end of of the war, so your son can be avenged. He is buried in Sauvigny Cemetery, where the inhabitants keep the grave fresh with flowers. November 2 the chief of the Dragoons went there with eighty of his men to lay a wreath on the grave and made a stirring address, and everybody wept."

JAPAN'S PRINCE AT COLOMBO

(Reuter's Service)

Colombo, August 9.—The Crown Prince of Japan arrived here this morning. There was no state reception.

The Governor and the senior state officials, together with the members of the Japanese colony, will dine on board the Katori this evening, and tomorrow there will be dinner on board the Kashima given by the Japanese Admiral.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 10.—Addressing a largely attended Seiyukai meeting at Sapporo today, the Premier, Mr. Hara, expressed great gratification at the satisfaction felt in Japan at the success of the Crown Prince's tour in Europe, which was now nearing completion, and which, he stated, "warrants the conclusion that the journey has much contributed to the Prince's enlightenment, and has improved the friendship between Japan and foreign Powers and monarchs."

The Japanese Government, the Prime Minister continued, was determined to participate in the Washington Conference, as it was confidently and sincerely convinced that realisation of armament limitation would be a long step towards the promotion of the peace and welfare of the world.

Speakin' about terms, some of my folks take Orange Juice with Breakfast, that means twice as much Unadulterated Sunkist fresh Orange Juice, as is sold elsewhere at eighty cents in an unwashed glass with unwrapped straws, well I don't serve straws or Obligatos, anyhow but my glasses are clean and my food comes under the same heading. Rough figurin' this item alone figures $50.00 monthly, but then my Breakfasts include Eggs nineteen-twenty-one vintage and don't taste like they were rejected by the Spanish-American War Authorities, and NONESUCH HOTCAKES or some Fresh Roast-beef Hash (not re-enlisted kitchen hangovers) fact is most my folks kinda order what they want, and don't have to "try and get it." Sometime I'll tell you about the fellow who said my Soups were an Event not an incident. And my terms are all out of proportion in their reasonableness.

You're wonderin' why I haven't tea Waiting List (well I have and they're goin' to keep on waiting). I'll let you in on a secret, I'm just as particular about whom I take in my home, as I am about the service they get while they stay and I do not cater to Drunks or Ladies who are being assisted. I have a large clean cheerful double room, private bath, beautifully furnished, available immediately, and on August 15th. I will have a little apartment of sitting room, bedroom, dressing-room, private bath, meals can be served in apartment, location five minutes from Bund. Elmont's. 18 Quinsan Garden. Telephone North 844. 40340

The Ministry of Finance

NOTICE is hereby given to the public that on the 16th of February, 1921, this Ministry entrusted the Banque Industrielle de Chine to negotiate on our behalf 25 Treasury Bills, each bearing a face value of Francs 1,000,000, due on the 31st January, 1923. Up to the present these Treasury Bills have not yet been disposed of and no proceeds have been paid to this Ministry. It is hereby declared that this Ministry has cancelled the above Treasury Bills which are now null and void.

The Ministry of Finance

In the Matter of Registration of Transfer or Loss of Treasury Bills

NOTICE is hereby given to the public that the Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes issued from time to time by this Ministry in the Chinese or foreign language to the various institutions, banks or foreign firms are of numerous kinds, and it frequently happens that complications arise owing to loss or transfer of such documents by the original holders. Such a state of affairs is detrimental to the circulation of Treasury Bills as well as being injurious to Government credit.

In the Second Year of the Republic (1913), Regulations governing the Registration of Transfer or Loss of Official Salary Treasury Bills were enforced and found to be of great convenience to the holders. Similar Regulations are now to be enforced in regard to all other kinds of Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes, as follows:

(1) In the case of making a transfer of Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes, other than bearer documents, wherein the name of the Payee is specified, the original Payee himself must apply to this Ministry for sanction of the transfer, and such transfer shall become valid only after it has been duly sanctioned by this Ministry. This Ministry will not recognize as valid any transfer made in any other way. In the case of loss of Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes, the original Payee shall report the case to this Ministry and this Ministry will take such action as required by the circumstances.

(2) Unmatured bearer Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes shall not be used to meet payments due to the Government. No application for replacement of lost bearer Treasury Bills or Promissory Notes will be considered.

The above Regulations are enforced for the purpose of protecting the interests of the original holders and facilitating the work of this Ministry in dealing with such matters.

Conseil D'Administration Municipale De La Concession Francaise de Changhai

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1921

(20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each).

Rate of interest 8% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on May 30, 1921.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:—

1°—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°—The loan will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st July, 1931 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

3°—The loan will bear interest at 8% per annum, payable on the 30th day of June and 31st of December in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

4°—The property and income of the Municipality, deducting those which serve as security provided in the Municipal Loans of 1903, 1911, 1914 and 1916 are the security for the repayment of the money advanced and for the interest thereon in the present loan.

The Members of the French Municipal Council are not personally liable in any way for the payment of either principal or interests.

5°—Applications for debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for must be deposited at the same time.

6°—Applications for Debentures under par will not be recognised by the Council.

7°—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. LEGENDRE, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 1st July, 1921.
P. LEGENDRE,
Secretary.

Singapore Rubber Auctions

Singapore, July 27, 1921

Since our last report the London market has weakened with prices declining almost daily during the past week. The buying centers are quiet and the local market dull, with only a small amount of business doing. It appears that the interest of buyers has slackened owing to the adoption of the Rubber Producers scheme being doubtful.

At the local auction the demand was only fair; 622 tons were offered and 478 sold.

Awarded Standard Sheet sold up to 28½ cents, thus marking a decline of 3 cents.

Sheet equal to Standard was wanted at above figures.

Off Quality Sheet found buyers at prices about 3 cents down.

Only one lot Awarded Standard 1st Latex was sold, fetching 30 cents.

Not much interest was taken in Crepe equal to Standard and Off Color Latex.

Brown, Dark and Darky Crepes found buyers, realising prices on an average 1 cent down.

In the afternoon the tone of the market eased off, some lots of Awarded Standard Sheet were sold at 28 cents, but towards the close sellers withdraw their lots at buyers' bid of 27½ cents.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending yesterday:

Exchange:—After remaining steady for the first four days of the week under review the London price of silver collapsed to 36¼ d., i.e. 2⅝ d., lower than last week's quotation. We understand that resale of silver by the Indian Bazaars, who have supported the market for some time past, is responsible for the reaction reported. China has also sold.

Our rate for T.T. on London anticipated the drop in silver, and has fallen 2½ d. to 3/6⅛. Our local Gold Dealers and the Chinese Banks came out today as sellers of Gold T.T. either on account of profit taking, or with the idea of supporting exchange. Under any circumstances, as far as exchange business in connection with Imports and Exports is concerned the demand for Gold T.T. is very much in excess of the cover offering in the shape of export paper and the natural course of exchange should be towards a lower level. In view of the operations of Chinese referred to we closed firm.

The following figures regarding stocks of silver in Shanghai have been carefully revised and will be the basis of future comparisons in this circular.

Stock of sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 27,000,000.

Stock of Chinese and Mexican Dollars $25,000,000.

Estimated value in Taels Tls. 45,000,000, as against Tls. 48,000,000 held at this time last year.

Jungle Brew Makes Man Walk Backward

Chicago, July 12.—American home brewers, laboring with hops and malt in dusky cellars or behind drawn blinds, are the veriest amateurs when compared to the jungle natives of South Africa, according to the Rev. William C. Terrill, Methodist Episcopal missionary of Johannesburg, British South Africa, who is visiting Methodist headquarters in Chicago.

So skilful are the bush savages, the Rev. Mr. Terrill says, that they can make alcoholic drinks from practically anything that grows in the jungle. Oranges, limes, sweet potatoes, pineapples, corn, cassava root and all kinds of native fruits are turned into strong drinks.

The compounds of the kitchen distiller are mild alongside some of the South African beverages. The Rev. Mr. Terrill described a drink which reverses the nerves, giving tipplers an irresistible desire to walk backward, with a carnival of ludicrous antics. The liquor comes from the fruit of the cashew tree. The abundant juice ferments in the sun within a few hours, and the longer it stands the stronger it becomes. When fermentation has gone far enough the natives distill the product and obtain a liquor with a very high alcoholic content, as well as a big percentage of ammonia.

AFTER GALLIPOLI

A War Veteran's Experience

After three years military service, and exposure amid the heat and horrors of Gallipoli's inhospitable shores, Mr. J. W. Mills returned to England sadly weakened in constitution and general health. Interviewed recently at his residence, 5, Deepdale Lane, Upper Gornal, near Dudley, Mr. Mills said:—

"Soon after getting back to civilian life I began to feel the effects of my war experience, and everything became a trouble and a burden to me. I was fatigued by the walk to business in the morning, and when I reached there I was fit for nothing. I struggled through the day as best I could, but all the time my head, eyes and back ached.

"When I got home I was absolutely 'done up.' My head trouble, and the great difficulty I experienced in concentrating on anything made life a burden. I derived no benefit from the medicine which the doctor provided nor from other remedies which I tried.

"Then I read an article in the newspaper about Dr. Williams' pink pills, and resolved to give them a trial. The first few pills I took arrested the development of the physical and mental inertia from which I was suffering, and I soon knew that I was on the right track.

"I persevered with the pills, and my physical weariness was soon dispelled. It is no longer a fatigue to work, in fact I feel that I have taken on a fresh lease of life, and am like a new man. I sleep better, eat much more heartily, and in every way feel stronger. I am quite sure that I owe everything to Dr. Williams' pink pills."

If you are a sufferer from any of the symptoms described above, do not delay, but begin a course of Dr. Williams' pink pills. Of dealers, or direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 98 Szechuen Road, Shanghai $1.50 per bottle, $8 for six bottles, post free. For men, and women too.

IMPARTIAL & PROGRESSIVE

SHANGHAI, AUGUST 11, 1921

WEATHER

Hot and fine weather, with decreasing monsoon. The Pacific Ocean typhoon is still advancing towards the Loochoos. A new low pressures center is appearing to the N-E of Guam.

Japan And The Pacific Conference

A FEW days ago a very significant though badly mutilated telegram from Tokio was issued by Reuter's Agency. The telegram, as conjecturally amended by Reuter and issued to the press, was as follows:

It is intimated in responsible quarters that Japan, assuming [a position] as leading Far Eastern Power, is likely to submit to the Conference the abandonment of extraterritoriality in China and to ask the fixation of immigration rights to countries like Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and Indo-China, and generally raise the question of radical equality [race equality?]. The impression is growing that an endeavor will be made to settle the Yap and Shantung questions, which interest Americans, before the Conference. Japan's policy appears to be to obtain a preliminary accord among the Powers concerning the agenda. Viscount Chinda is mentioned as probably the chief delegate.

It will be seen that there are four main points in the foregoing, and they are of special interest now that Japan has consented to the opening of the Conference on November 11. First, Japan wants to have the settling of the agenda of the Conference. The object of this is clear enough. Japan wants to exclude all matters that she thinks she can settle by her method of brow-beating diplomacy before the Conference begins, and with a definitely fixed agenda she will be able to object to the introduction in the Conference of any issues not explicitly provided for in the agenda.

It is too early to fix the agenda. Each of the Powers invited to the Conference will have a whole series of questions that it would like to have discussed and the complete list cannot be made up at a moment's notice. It is not therefore likely that President Harding will walk into this trap. By allowing Japan to draw up the agenda, which is really what Japan wants, President Harding would practically resign the leadership of the Conference to Japan, at whose feet all the other Powers would have to sit; and if there is one thing President Harding most certainly will not do, or invite the other Powers to do, it is to sit at the feet of this modern Gamaliel.

A second important question raised by Japan is that of extraterritoriality. It is hinted that Japan will propose the abolition of extraterritoriality in China. The proposal is a Greek g . t is quite certain that none of the other Treaty Powers will consent to the abolition of extraterritoriality in China at present; and Japan knows it. Japan herself is opposed to the removal of even the most superfluous marks of extraterritoriality. At the Postal Congress in Madrid, Japan was the only Power that disapproved of the withdrawal of foreign post offices from China, and she is increasing the number of her postoffices in this country almost every month. The Japanese Post Office enables Japanese traders to evade the Chinese Customs to an enormous extent, thereby establishing an unfair competition with other foreign traders. Moreover, it is one of the most important factors in the extensive morphia trade that Japan is carrying on in this country. Japan's clear object in suggesting that she may raise the question of extraterritoriality is to curry favor with China and thus smooth the way to a settlement to her own advantage of the many issues that she would like to see settled between herself and China before the Conference meets, and thus prevent any awkward enquiries about them.

A third point of importance is the suggestion that the question of race equality may be raised. Surely a new attempt to exploit this issue is foredoomed to failure! It was raised at the Paris Conference but, as everybody now knows, it was raised simply as a bargaining issue. Japan practically said: "Well, if you will not accept our race equality resolution you must give us something else," and she got Shantung and a heap of other things besides. She did not put it as bluntly as that, of course; but she calculated very shrewdly that the other Powers would think to themselves, even if they did not say out loud: "We must give Japan something. She has let the race equality resolution drop, we must do something for her in return."

As the Paris Conference was essentially nothing more than a meeting for the division of the spoils, that was inevitably the line that things took. If Japan brings forward again the race equality resolution then let everybody beware, for if it is rejected Japan will insist on something tangible for herself instead. The simplest way of dealing with the resolution, if and when it comes up, is to accept it. That will put a nasty spoke in Japan's wheel. Incidentally, it may be pointed out, the principle at the bottom of the resolution is one that has for a long time been tacitly accepted by the nations of the world, though it has not been acted upon with conspicuously remarkable consistently.

It is an underlying postulate of the Christian religion that all nations of the world are one flesh and blood. It is an ancient Chinese belief that all within the four seas are brothers. Every American knows that all men are born free and equal. The religious and theoretical acceptance of race equality is as widespread as its practical repudiation. To the Chinese the Westerner is a barbarian, or was until recently. For the Japanese the best criminal code for the Formosan is still a circuit of electrified iron wire. Japan has no desire to equalise the races, but she has a desire to put the Western Powers in an awkward position and refuse to exclude them from it except on terms that give her a substantial and very tangible benefit.

Finally, Japan is anxious to assert her position as the paramount Power in the Far East. If Japan can draw up the agenda of the Conference she will have achieved quite a great deal towards the acceptance by the other Powers of what she is pleased to call the "Monroe Doctrine for the Far East." This travesty of the Monroe Doctrine she has been to some extent successful in imposing on the world because of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. The lion has shaken his head and swished his tail now and again during the past eighteen years; but has with exemplary patience let the lamb do pretty much what it liked. Japan now wants not only the lion but the eagle and the cock and the dragon to own not the equality but the supremacy of the lamb in the Far East.

As An American Playwright Sees Paris

BY GEORGE MIDDLETON

Paris, June 22.—Coming to the French theater after years of Broadway presents many contrasts. The bad system of selling tickets when one sometimes stands in line for a half hour while the polite lady in the box office is writing cabalistic numbers and signs upon your billets; the complication of changing your tickets if you don't buy in advance; the clamoring of the vestiaire to take your hat and stick; the insistence of the ouvreuse for her pourboire even when you have found the seat yourself; the extra franc or two for the program, which gives away the story of the play, and never reveals where the scenes are laid; the tips necessary if you wish to wash your hands during the intermission made interminable to encourage the bar (there are no suburban trains to catch here); the terrible ventilation; the fear of fire, with little chance for escape because of the strapontins which fill the aisles, and the boxes which snugly embrace the amphitheater—all these are subjects of sharp comment to yourself.

But after the first few weeks one tries to do what the average Frenchman does—admits it is an impossible system, badly organised, and then philosophically accepts it because it always has been. Nobody seems to lose his temper, and somehow the theaters are always full. For Paris this year has been theater mad. No new theaters have been built, and the large increase in urban population has brought a new public. Of these many before have not been theater-goers, for the war has, according to many observers, so shifted the center of financial gravity that the old habitues have given away to new money that does not wear evening clothes in the fauteuils. Then, too, the prices of seats have been practically doubled. There is a new audience going to the Comedie Francaise, which, before the war, was not overprosperous. This new public also explains the great number of successful revivals, one or two of which, such as the delectable "Le Roi," have run the entire season. It is a fact that impressions ought to be caught when they are fresh, for habit dulls one into an easy acceptance of anything new, but however treacherous impressions may be when eyed in retrospect a season of theater-going in Paris does leave some very definite conclusions concerning the present condition of the French drama.

Let's frankly admit it may be unfair to judge it by old standards. The war has left too deep a scar upon the spirit of men to ask them to suffer more, even vicariously, through art. The serious play that plumbs French life today in this period of readjustment has not yet been written, and is not eagerly sought. Besides, life is still too shifting to afford a perspective. Broadly speaking, France in her amusements is trying quite rightly to laugh; yet that laughter persists upon the same old subject. The triangle is still the scepter of the French theater. But how they can manipulate it! Perhaps authors are right in claiming there is nothing more interesting than the relation of men and women with the eternal third to lend excitement to the view. It is generally very personal and not feministic or economic, though in plays like "L'Eternal Masculin," "L'Ecole des Cocottes" and "Le Scandale de Deauville" one senses au fond a sharp social comment. Among the programs of fifty plays I find a scant dozen which portray a different selection of subject—dramas like "Le Caducee" are the exception. Yet nearly all are undeniably amusing—which is their purpose—and one soon becomes interested in the gymnastic complications of the plot carried on by brilliant dialogue, for the French writer is master of the replique.

What is a more fun[illegible] criticism, however, is that as one sees French life at close range one gets the impression that these plays—even the more serious ones—do not really interpret or reveal the larger aspects of the life about, for it is certainly broader and more varied than its theater. The novel more closely approximates it. Then, too, the theater of France is the theater of Paris. With only a few exceptions the plays all deal with the Paris of fine gowns and chic women—not that other industrial Paris one learns to love in watching its people. It is the boulevards and salons always. Scarcely a play this year has touched on provincial life, which has been such a mine for the French novelists; our small-town play of the "Lightnin'" type is practically unknown here. I recall only two of real interest—"La Maison du Bon Dieu" and Denys Amiel and Andre Obey's "La Souriante Madame Beaudet," both done by co-operative groups of authors. The latter will undoubtedly find its way to America because of its theme and splendid treatment. However generous France may be to the dance and music of other nations, it was a butte who rose up and demanded at the Pasdeloup concert: "Why don't you give Wagner?"—one feels it is intensely national in its drama. There is little interest shown anywhere in our drama, for example, and many are surprised to learn of its vigor and scope. But two American plays have been done this season and one English comedy, "Arms and the Man," produced by the indefatigable Gemier, a rare actor and highly imaginative metteur en scene. Copeau has given us again his magnificent "Twelfth Night," and the Comedie Francaise has rewritten and presented "Romeo and Juliet" and "Antony and Cleopatra," the latter for only one performance. In the smaller theaters Lugne-Poe has offered occasional performances of Ibsen and Pitoeff has struggled to arouse an interest in the Russian dramatists. But the boulevard theaters have done practically nothing. A change may be coming, since many critics are agitating for a more catholic range of production, even going so far as to urge a theater to be devoted solely to foreign plays one remarkable event to point this widened interest was the invitation from the French Government given to J. K. Hackett to present "Macbeth" in English at the State Theater, where he was greeted with wild enthusiasm. The success of this venture will undoubtedly present interesting possibilities in the future.

Many of the younger dramatists with whom I have spoken have complained that they are unable to get a hearing or a production. Last October this unrest culminated in a union of some authors with the Syndicate, with a view of having the labor body help them to obtain a greater opportunity for presentation. I tried to follow all the complicated moves, but while it availed little it did call attention to obvious abuses. It is undoubtedly more difficult here for the new man than in America. Even Antoine—whose criticisms in L'Information are always interesting—was moved gently to protest this Spring over the fact that Bataille had had five plays running this Winter. But the inner politics of the French theater are too sinuous to attempt to unravel here. Personal influence and the prestige of past performances rather than the test of merit play a large part. Then the limited number of theaters and greatly increased expenses make the manager hesitate to take risks with the new man. In fact his psychology is not unusual. Even the one-act lever de rideau—formerly so prevalent as a stepping stone for the new writer—has practically disappeared; mainly because the author of the longer piece objects to sharing his royalties; for here in Paris the rules concerning royalties are standardised. Yet, except for Bataille, the older men have done little this season. Bernstein has contented himself with a revival of "La Rafale." What a joy these long and periodic revivals must be to authors. Capus, Curel and Tristan Bernard each produced a failure. Brieux has done nothing of importance. Pierre Wolff's "Ailes Brisees" was one of his characteristic products which Paris loved—somewhat akin in theme to Bataille's "La Tendresse," the surrender of middle age to the claims of youth—in love, of course. Bataille always runs true to form; a real homme du theater to his facile finger tips. One can generally predicate his type, but more uncertainty hovers over the offerings of his rival in popular affections, Sacha Guitry. I have read many of his plays and seen five this year. One, a revival of his charming "La Prise de Berg O Zum," indicates he can be the conventional playwright when he wishes. Here he follows what one may call the rules of the game.

But "Je T'Aime," "Le Comedien" and his latest, "Le Grand Duc," are distilled Sacha. They are the admiration and the despair of the critic. Beneath all their brilliancy of dialogue, observation and lack of form, one feels a playboy of the Gallic world having the time of his life. They contain isolated unforgettable scenes full of unexpected invention, and sparkling with a wit that is at times Molieresque. His cynicism is merely irresponsible mirth that plays on everything. What limits them from a large and enduring appeal is not only their fragility but the average unimportance of their subjects. Yet he is above all a real personality, a great improvisateur, and incidentally, in my judgment, one of the finest light comedians in a Paris full of them. In somewhat this same genre, "Le Retour," by de Flers and de Croisset, is a typical example of a play tailored by experts for success. It has had the longest run in Paris. "La Huitieme Femme de Barbe-Bleue," by Savoi, will shortly be done in America and should succeed on its sensational third act alone. Lenormand is an author with an undoubted future. "Le Simoun," while disagreeable to Anglo-Saxon susceptibilities, revealed a real thinker anxious to deal with unconventional subjects in a novel way. His psycho-analytical approach affords variety in a theater laden with old motives and stereotyped patterns. This latest play—like "Les Rates"—is a successful effort to open up new methods of technic. He is produced all over Europe.

While few of the other plays I have seen linger in the memory, theater-going in Paris is stimulating. Three theaters alone are unlike anything we have in America. It is the habit of the younger writers here to deride the Comedie Francaise. It is always a sign of health to have one section of the artists deride another section and call it "gaga." content means movement. haps that dramatic museum many limitations; it does not courage the younger writer. gossip speaks much of its i politics, which have had some disastrous results this Winter. But when all is said and done there is nothing like it anywhere. Even if at times it lacks that surprising youth and experimentation which has recently characterised the other State theater, L'Odeon, when one considers its enormous and varied reportoire and the general high level of its performances it still remains a great theater. Though now it lacks the outstanding personalities off a Bartet or a Mounet-Sulley, it has feraudy and the fascinating Pierat, whose performances in "Les Marionettes" and "La Marche Nuptiale" stamp her as one of France's most ingratiating actresses. Le Bargy, too, will soon return after his long controversy with the authorities wherein he was less successful than Bernhardt and Coquelin years ago. This theater has been playing all Winter to capacity, like L'Odeon, for during the war the latter on the rive gauche regained its popularity, not only because of its skilful direction, but also because the difficult means of communication which then existed made people more willing to patronise a playhouse in their midst. I confess a great admiration for the young artists who make up this splendid company, and come new plays like "Le Maitre de son Coeur" and "Notre Passion" foreshadow futures for their authors. The little Vieux Colombier has completely come into its own under the direction of Copeau, who is, in some respects, the finest director in Paris—a master of massing and gifted with a sense of color and decor which always creates beauty on his tiny stage. His company, too, contains many fine actors, among them the charming Tessier and an unusual character actor we admired so much in America—Jouvet.

Perhaps this matter of acting makes the greatest appeal. I have been frankly disappointed many times in the carelessness of make-up which destroys illusion to us who are so captious about it, but that seems a small detail before the results accomplished. Somehow, too, I have not, except in rare instances, been greatly moved by the emotional acting—perhaps because an Anglo-Saxon cannot surrender his emotions easily to situations so infinitely moving to his Gallic neighbor—and how they do weep here!

I admire the glittering technic of a Simone, Depres, a Sergine and De Bray, to mention only a few. Perhaps it was a bit of past memories which moved me so deeply for a few moments when Sarah spoke—but her indefinable touch of genius was elsewhere lacking. Yet when it comes to comedy—light, delicate effects, where a word is caressed into a dozen meanings—here the French actor is supreme. Unimportant trifles become vivid with life, however limited in scope they may be. A performance such as one finds in "Le Grand Duc"—with the two Guitrys, Yvonne Printemps and Jeanne Granier—could not be excelled elsewhere in the world. One of our best-known stars told me he had never seen any one play with the reserve and suggestion of Lucien Guitry, who this year has been creating parts that have not released his deep emotional power, which, I am told, places him, like Gemier, among the great actors in that genre also. One is sometimes led to believe that it is because France boasts such brilliant comedians that the dramatists are inspired to write so many trifling comedies which acting alone carries. That is undoubtedly why this particular type fails when transplanted to America—they need a Victor Boucher, a Raimu or a Charlotte Lysca to make them live for us. And who can walk that uncertain tight rope between farce and comedy like a French actor? The list of these skilful comedians, headed by Max Dearly, is legion. In fact, I cannot recall a single bad performance of farce or comedy, even in the second-rate theaters. What one misses here, however, is the actor "of the soil," actors like Frank Bacon or Maclyn Arbuckle. This may be due to the fact that there are few plays of this type so essentially American. Here they are a trifle too polished a trifle too conscious of effects.

If, then, the present French theater lacks the force of compelling complete admiration, for the stranger it has decided compensations. Though it is suffering from a growing commercialism on its boulevards, the State theaters are upholding the traditions of a great dramatic literature, though now inevitably a trifle faded in presentation. Dramatists here are at least men of literary standing and are so accepted. Their plays are printed and widely read. In technical resources our dramatists are the equal of the French playwright, though he may be lacking that subtle literary coating which makes the average French play wear such appealing livery. Certainly our drama is broader in aim, and represents more phases of our own life. On the mere business side of the theater we are better organised, if somewhat more mechanicalised — though that is not fundamentally important. The average of our mise en scene is higher and our acting in certain lines more varied as to types, though not always played with such an admirable ensemble. Nor do I find anything in Paris as young, as cosmopolitan and as promising for the future as our own Theater Guild, which has already a Continental reputation.

Yet there is a charm here about theater-going which is undeniable; perhaps it is the very casualness one complains of, and in a sense that when normal times return there will come once more a full flowering of playwriting and acting which made France in the past the inspiration of all who love the art of the theater. But it will always be more art than life; for the rich and varied life of France we must turn to the novelists.

NEW LINER TAKES WENATCHEE'S RUN

Hawkeye State To Be Used Temporarily By Admiral Line On Northern Pacific

The Admiral Line office in Yokohama has been advised by cable that the new passenger liner Hawkeye State has been assigned to its company for operation out of Seattle, to take the schedule of the Wenatchee which had to be held in dock for a month for repairs and alterations. The Hawkeye State, named for the state of Iowa, has been operated for a short time by the Matson Navigation Company from San Francisco to Hawaii, and it is thought that its assignment to the Admiral Line is only temporary pending the delivery to this company of others of its five state type liners.

The Hawkeye State will leave Seattle Auwust 27 and is expected to arrive at Yokohama September 8. Like the Wenatchee and the Silver State, it will have an American jazz orchestra of university men. These groups of musicians have been extremely popular with passengers, as well as with foreign residents of the port cities in the Orient. The general passenger agent of the Admiral Line, writing to agencies in the Far East, states that there are plenty of American university musicians who would like to take the trip to the Orient and that so long as the public desires this class of music it will be furnished.

SHANGHAI-EUROPE RATES ARE RAISED

Increase For European Freight Conference Dates From August 1

Tokio, Aug. 5.—The freight rates from Shanghai to Europe for the European Freight Conference has been raised as beginning with August 1. The increase is due to the continued rise in freight rates from the Orient to Europe. Until recently the rate from Dairen to Europe was 56s., but the present rate is 70s., owing to active shipments of wheat, beans, and other foodstuffs. In view of this rise on the Dairen market, the Freight Conference has increased its rates from Shanghai to Europe. Thus the rate on beans has been raised from 57s. 6d. to 66s., that on oil in case from 78s. to 90s., that on peanuts in husks from 195s. to 224s., that on husked peanuts from 72s. to 183s., and that on sesame from 78s. to 90s.

On the other hand, the Java Freight Conference has lowered its rates. This conference is composed of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, the Java-China-Japan Line, and the Nanyo Yusen Kaisha, but Messrs. Struthers and Dixon and the Admiral Line have recently started new services on this line. To meet competition from these two companies, the Java Freight Conference has lowered its rates, as from August 1, the rate on cement being reduced from Y.2 to Y.1.50, that on matches from Y.15 to Y.14, and that on fertilisers from Y.15 to Y.13.

FIRST DROP AUGUST 31

The steamship companies maintaining services across the Atlantic contemplate reducing first and second class passenger fares between Europe and America by 10 percent, says a New York despatch received by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha. The reduction will probably, it is added, take effect, beginning with August 31 in regard to fares for Europe and with October 31 in respect of those for America.

The present first class rate is $200, and the second class $100. The reason for the proposed reduction is not yet clear, but the fact that it is to be confined to first and second class rates, third class rates being excluded, is believed to be connected with a desire not to cause any further increase in the arrivals of immigrants from Italy, Russia, and other European countries.

GETS BIG TIMBER CONTRACT

The Katsuda Kisen Kaisha has secured an American contract for the shipment of timber from North America to Japan, to be discharged at Yokohama, Nagoya, and Kobe, the freight rate being $12.50. Though the Freight Conference rate is $12.50, outside companies have hitherto carried Portland timber at only about $11, but the Yamashita Kisen Kaisha, one of such concerns, has now secured the contract at the same rate as the Conference rate. This contract is attracting attention as pointing to increased shipments of timber from Portland.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha is reported to have chartered the Alps Maru, 12,000 tons deadweight, now tied up in Osaka, to the Yamashita Kisen Kaisha for a term of four months. The rate is said to be Y.2 per ton per month.
